

Ike Wants Surpluses Used In Food-for-Peace Drive

Calls for Lower Price Supports, Reduction of Surpluses on Open Market

Washington — President Eisenhower announced plans today for a food-for-peace drive aimed to turn farm surpluses into a major new weapon for the free world's arsenal.

The project was disclosed in a special farm message to congress which otherwise renewed with fresh emphasis the president's call for lower price supports. Eisenhower said that would cut down overstocks through market place sales and reduce federal farm outlays.

Eisenhower said present price support programs are "excessively expensive" and crop control programs don't work.

The food-for-peace plan came up in Eisenhower's discussion of efforts to find expanded markets and new outlets for farm products.

"In these efforts there is an immediate and direct bearing on the cause of world peace," Eisenhower said. "Food can be a powerful instrument for all the free world in building a durable peace."

Eisenhower related that in the last four years this country has provided friendly food-surplus nations with $4 billion worth of farm products through special export programs. He went on:

"I am setting steps in motion to explore anew with other surplus-producing nations all practical means of utilizing the various agricultural surpluses of each in the interest of reinforcing peace and the well-being of friendly peoples throughout the world—in short, using food for peace."

There was no expansion of the plans, which parallel ideas frequently advanced in congress. Democratic critics of the administration at the capitol have contended that this nation has been missing the chance to use its surpluses to promote American interests abroad as well as to aid backward areas.

Citing the big accumulation of surpluses and the large outlays of federal funds on farm programs, the message said "the need to reduce the incentives for excess production has been explicit" in the three special messages on agriculture which he has previously sent to the capitol.

Eisenhower said expenditures under present programs go largely to a relatively few big farmers. Dispersed to congress along with the message was a memorandum from Sec. of Agriculture Benson giving specific details regarding operation of present programs—particularly those affecting wheat, tobacco and rice—and outlining possible changes in farm laws.

Eisenhower took notice of Democratic proposals for changes in farm programs

Supermarket Strike Ends in Los Angeles

Los Angeles — Los Angeles supermarket operators dusted off welcome mats today for customers they haven't served in four weeks. Most of the 1,000 markets closed by a combination strike-lockout Jan. 1 re-opened today following the agreement reached yesterday on a new five-year contract for clerks.

The job of recalling the 16,000 union clerks idled by the strike-lockout began yesterday. The task of restocking the stores with perishable items had started even earlier.

Kennedy Sees Floor Fight Over Taft Act

Effort to be Made To Delete Provisions From Senator's Bill

Washington — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said today the key fight over his labor control bill will come on a floor effort to strip from it all provisions affecting the Taft-Hartley law.

He declined, in talking with a reporter, to predict how this might come out at this early stage of the proceedings.

The labor subcommittee which Kennedy heads continues its public hearings on the legislation today. Witnesses will be Prof. Archibald Cox of Harvard university, who helped draft the Kennedy bill, and Prof. Godfrey Schmidt of Fordham university.

Other senators supporting the Kennedy bill said they thought the senate floor vote on knocking out the Taft-Hartley changes would be very close.

Some in Ike's Bill These sources said privately that most Republican senators and many southern Democrats probably would support such a move. Several of the provisions also are in the Eisenhower administration bill introduced yesterday, but that measure also includes other proposed changes strongly opposed by labor.

The AFL-CIO made it clear yesterday that it would strongly oppose cutting Taft-Hartley changes from the Kennedy bill.

Andrew J. Biemiller, director of the AFL-CIO department of legislation, said at one point this organization would not support the bill if this happened. But he later withdrew that statement.

5 Youths Die in Florida Crash

Cocoa Beach, Fla. — Five 18-year-old boys were killed and two others were injured critically early today when their automobile smashed through a pipeline barrier on the ocean beach.

Patrick Costello and Kenneth Goepfer, the two who survived the crash, were taken to a hospital at Orlando, some 50 miles away, where their conditions were described as critical.

The dead—some of them partially decapitated by the violent impact—were identified as Kenneth L. Gardiner, James E. Weaver, Richard C. Knohler and Nickie H. Morgan, all of Orlando, and John E. Roquemore, owner of the car.

Roquemore was the son of a Miami automobile dealer. He was recently discharged from the army after six months active duty.

Attorney Slain, Suspect Seized

El Paso, Texas — A gunman killed El Paso attorney Theodore Andress at International airport here last night, threw his empty pistol at the body and stroled away.

An unidentified witness, reacting to the screams of the lawyer's wife, grabbed Dr. Harold Eidinoff inside the airport terminal a few minutes later.

The witness held the middle-aged operator of an apartment house in Grants, N.M., until Patrolman Servando Blanco arrived.

Police Chief Howard Jones said Dr. Eidinoff, who was wearing a bullet-proof vest, has been identified as a gunman who shot Andress five times. He was charged with murder.

Chief Jones said Dr. Eidinoff, once a physician here, and Andress had been involved in legal disputes dating back to 1954.

Range Sacrificed to Push Polaris, Says Defense Secretary

No Serious Gaps in National Program, McElroy Declares

Washington — Sec. of Defense Neil McElroy testified today there are "no serious gaps" in the nation's defenses but that range has been sacrificed in order to push the Polaris missile program.

The defense secretary also upheld the administration's decision to cancel production of the Regulus II and Snark missiles on grounds they had been overtaken by scientific advances.

McElroy was the first witness at the opening of senate hearings to determine where the United States stands in defense, missiles and space in comparison with Russia.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, was presiding. He told McElroy and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, that the investigators "want the facts—with the bark off, if you please."

McElroy said that all the chiefs of staff agree the new defense budget is adequate and contains no serious gaps—although each has "some reservations regarding some of the program items of his own service."

Cut Down in Thrust Edwin Weisl, counsel for the senate investigators, asked McElroy whether it is true that the original range of the Polaris—the projected submarine-launched missile that is expected to be in operation late next year—was 1,500 miles but now has been cut to 800 to 1,000 miles.

"This is classified information," McElroy replied. He did say there had been some sacrifice of range. Twice the thrust is not needed, he said, to take a warhead to selected targets in the Soviet Union.

Weisl got an agreement from the secretary on a statement that four things are necessary before an intercontinental ballistic missile can be

South Korea Got Most Aid

President Strips Secrecy From U. S. Allotments

Washington — President Eisenhower has stripped the secrecy label off the economic aid allotments to individual countries, disclosing that South Korea topped the list with $221 million in the year ended last June 30.

Communist-threatened Viet Nam ranked as the second biggest recipient with $184 million. India was awarded $81,400,000, the third biggest amount, but also got an additional $225 million in loans and surplus farm products from other government agencies.

Eisenhower disclosed the country-by-country breakdown in a foreign aid report yesterday to congress.

Best Weapon "Now more than ever," Eisenhower said, foreign aid is the best way to stop the communist drive to subvert underdeveloped countries. He said the threat of communism in the far east is greater now than it was 10 years ago "because our opponents are more powerful" and their tactics more subtle.

The cost of providing guns and military equipment to friendly nations exceeded economic aid during the twelve month period. Military allocations amounted to $1,900,000,000 compared to $1,400,000,000 in economic assistance. There was no breakdown of the amounts of military aid.

The fourth ranking recipient of economic aid was Turkey, a firm anti-communist ally which is battling critical economic problems. Turkey was allocated $74 million, followed by Pakistan with $65,300,000 and Formosa with $60 million; others in the top 10 were Spain, $54,000,000; Jordan, $32,600,000; Laos, $31 million, and Cambodia $28 million.

Proposes Fee System for State Primary

Candidates Would Run Without Filing Nomination Papers

Madison — A bill which would permit candidates for public office to get on the ballot without filing nomination papers was introduced today in the assembly.

The bill, introduced by Assemblyman W. W. Ward, D-New Richmond, would set fees ranging from $50 for U.S. Senate candidates to $2 for persons running for precinct offices. It would apply only to primaries.

A similar filing fee system is used in Minnesota. Ward's proposal would provide for getting on the ballot either through filing of nomination papers or payment of a fee.

Would Restore Bounties The assembly, after receiving several bills and a letter of resignation from Carl Thompson, D-Stoughton, adjourned to 9 a.m. Friday. This will be an informal session, however, and the lawmakers will return to work again at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Eight northern Wisconsin Democrats introduced a bill which would restore wild animal bounties. Bounties would be paid only on animals killed between March 1 and Sept. 1. The bill is one of several on this subject introduced during the session.

The assembly also received a petition, signed by 2,300 persons in the Portage area, and calling for restoration of bounties on foxes. The petition was submitted by Assemblyman John Kostuck, D-Portage.

Other bills introduced would: Remove the power of appointment of the director of the state department of agriculture from the State Board of Agriculture and put it in the hands of the governor—Sherman Sobocinski, D-Milwaukee.

Establish a State Recreation Commission and appropriate $24,800 annually for its operation—George Talsy and Norman Sussman, Milwaukee Democrats.

Budget Message To be Given Feb. 4

Assembly and senate members will meet jointly to hear the governor.

Light Sentence Given To Wartime Deserter

Naval Court Lenient With Texan, Could Have Imposed Life Sentence

San Francisco — "I'm thrilled — just thrilled," exclaimed the lanky Texan convicted of wartime desertion from the navy. The court-martial had just sentenced him — leniently — to six months of hard labor. He could have been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Carlton Vance Mings, 38, formerly of Swenson, Texas, was arrested at a Yuba City, Calif., farm labor camp after being a fugitive for 13 years. He had acquired a wife and three children under the name of Carl Watson.

Because of extenuating circumstances, the navy ruled out the possibility of the death penalty — usually applicable in wartime desertion. The 5-member navy court apparently was impressed by the character testimony.

"I was really scared," Mings said after yesterday's verdict. "I thought this is what comes from being young, from drinking and from poor judgment. I don't know how I'm going to feel when I walk out free after the strain of so many years. I just hope I'll be somebody some day."

He testified he missed his ship in May, 1945, because he was living with the wait-ress who later became his wife.

His wife, Wilma, was jubilant, too. "Now I won't have to worry about what I'll have to tell the children," Carl, 11; Joseph, 9, and Angie, 2. "I can tell them father will be home in six months — right after school."

In addition to the six-month sentence, Mings was dishonorably discharged and reduced in rating from fireman first class to apprentice.

Refuses to Dismiss Channel 10 Charges

Washington — Judge Burnita S. Matthews refused today to dismiss an indictment accusing Richard A. Mack and Thurman A. Whiteside of conspiring to influence the award of a Miami television permit.

Judge Matthews also turned down a defense motion in U. S. district court for transfer of the trial to Miami.

Mack, former federal communications commissioner, and Whiteside, a Miami attorney, were indicted after a house investigation of Whiteside's role in a contest for Miami TV Channel 10.

Mack and Whiteside are old friends and it was brought out that Mack had accepted financial favors from the lawyer while the proceeding was pending before the FCC.

Whiteside was not an attorney of record in the case, but had expressed interest in the bid by a subsidiary of National Airlines for the channel. Defense attorneys argued last week that the indictment should be dismissed in whole or in part on various grounds. One contention was that the secrecy of the grand jury proceedings had been violated by a newspaper story 11 days before the indictment was returned.

The story, which appeared in the Washington Star last Sept. 14, was headlined "U. S. to Seek Indictment in Miami TV Case." It said the justice department had prepared an indictment and that it was understood more than one defendant was named.

Judge Matthews said the story contained no reference to anything said before the grand jury, and did not state that any action had been taken by the grand jury.

"In the instant case there are no factual allegations of violation of the rule of secrecy, and hence the motions to dismiss the indictment for alleged violation of this rule are without support," Judge Matthews said in a memorandum opinion.

UW Dean Views Changing State Farm Picture

Dean Proker of the University of Wisconsin's school of agriculture spoke on the changing Wisconsin farm life during farm and home week in Madison. Ray Pagel, Post-Crescent News Service writer, was there to hear it and today gives Fox Cities readers the highlights of the dean's talk.

Among changes noted in the state's farm life is the dwindling number of farms, yet agriculture continues to increase in importance.

Filibuster Threat

The threat of a filibuster was used to weaken the 1957 civil rights bill, Douglas said, adding: "I fear it will be used again."

Douglas led a campaign this year to cut from 68 to 50 the number of senatorial votes required to choke off a filibuster—a method southerners have frequently used to kill civil rights legislation. Instead, the senate changed its rule to require a vote of two-thirds of the senators present and voting.

The purpose of the bill was summed up by Douglas as:

"First, to declare and accept federal legal and moral responsibility for implementing the constitutional requirement of desegregation.

"Second, to provide vitally needed federal, technical and financial assistance and federal leadership to states and

The grant provision would also authorize funds for school facilities in areas where the chief problem preventing integration is the lack of adequate buildings or other physical equipment. Help also would be provided for hiring additional teachers if needed.

In addition to the grants, $2½ million a year for 5 years would be provided for such things as surveys and conferences on integration.

A clause similar to one stripped from the 1957 civil rights measure would authorize the attorney general to start civil actions against those who deprive others of equal rights on account of race, color, religion or national origin.

Prince Rainier Strips Council Of Its Powers

Rift Occurs Over Parliament Refusal To Submit Budget

Monte Carlo (AP)—Prince Rainier III told Monaco's 18-man parliament to jump in the Mediterranean today and transferred its powers temporarily to his cabinet.

The prince broadcast the news personally this morning to the 3,000 citizens and 22,000 foreign residents of his park-sized principality on the Riviera.

He said he was temporarily suspending the constitutional powers of the parliament—the national council—and transferring them to the council of state.

Purse String Squeeze

The powers of both bodies are advisory only, and anything they recommend must be approved by Rainier. Actual government operations are mostly controlled by France through a minister of state, or prime minister, who by treaty is always a Frenchman.

Rainier said he was stripping the national council of its powers because it hadn't recommended a budget. The council had been trying to squeeze him with the purse strings to get more power, something they've been seeking for nearly a year.

The prince said he had written the national council twice, asking it to get moving on the budget and other matters. "My voice went unheard," he declared. Presumably the cabinet now will supply a budget.

The political dustup was expected to cause little concern in Monaco, which has no income tax, no military service and no unemployment. As long as that happy state prevails, the popularity of the prince, Princess Grace (Kel-

Sponsor Sweeping Civil Rights Bill

Paul Douglas, 14 Other Senators Introduce Measure Aimed at Insuring Integrated Schools

BY JOE F. KANE

Washington — (AP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) and 14 other senators joined today to introduce a sweeping civil rights bill aimed at insuring integrated schooling.

The measure is the same bill Douglas sponsored without success in the last session of congress. It would authorize $200 million of federal funds for a 5-year program of grants to speed racial integration.

In a senate speech prepared for its introduction, Douglas called the bill meaningful and constructive, but said "the results of our recent efforts to curb the filibuster have undoubtedly dimmed the outlook for the passage of such a measure."

Filibuster Threat

The threat of a filibuster was used to weaken the 1957 civil rights bill, Douglas said, adding: "I fear it will be used again."

Douglas led a campaign this year to cut from 68 to 50 the number of senatorial votes required to choke off a filibuster—a method southerners have frequently used to kill civil rights legislation. Instead, the senate changed its rule to require a vote of two-thirds of the senators present and voting.

The purpose of the bill was summed up by Douglas as: "First, to declare and accept federal legal and moral responsibility for implementing the constitutional requirement of desegregation.

"Second, to provide vitally needed federal, technical and financial assistance and federal leadership to states and local communities whose schools are still segregated.

"Third, to provide federal legal assistance where parties are unable to vindicate the constitutional rights of our school children and others."

Funds Available

Under grant provisions of the bill, funds would be available to local communities that wish to comply with the supreme court's school integration order in cases where, as in Georgia and Virginia, the state threatens to cut off funds or close the schools.

The grant provision would also authorize funds for school facilities in areas where the chief problem preventing integration is the lack of adequate buildings or other physical equipment. Help also would be provided for hiring additional teachers if needed.

In addition to the grants, $24 million a year for 5 years would be provided for such things as surveys and conferences on integration.

A clause similar to one stripped from the 1957 civil rights measure would authorize the attorney general to start civil actions against those who deprive others of equal rights on account of race, color, religion or national origin.

Prince Rainier Strips Council Of Its Powers

Rift Occurs Over Parliament Refusal To Submit Budget

Monte Carlo — (AP) — Prince Rainier III told Monaco's 18-man parliament to jump in the Mediterranean today and transferred its powers temporarily to his cabinet.

The prince broadcast the news personally this morning to the 3,000 citizens and 22,000 foreign residents of his park-sized principality on the Riviera.

He said he was temporarily suspending the constitutional powers of the parliament—the national council—and transferring them to the council of state.

Purse String Squeeze
The powers of both bodies are advisory only, and anything they recommend must be approved by Rainier. Actual government operations are mostly controlled by France through a minister of state, or prime minister, who by treaty is always a Frenchman.

Rainier said he was stripping the national council of its powers because it hadn't recommended a budget. The council had been trying to squeeze him with the purse strings to get more power, something they've been seeking for nearly a year.

The prince said he had written the national council twice, asking it to get moving on the budget and other matters. "My voice went unheard," he declared. Presumably the cabinet now will supply a budget.

The political dustup was expected to cause little concern in Monaco, which has no income tax, no military service and no unemployment. As long as that happy state prevails, the popularity of the prince, Princess Grace (Kelly) and their two children seems assured.

Adult Schools Ask Increased Aid From State

Green Bay Official Notes Greater Instruction Demands

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The Green Bay school of adult and vocational education is finding it difficult to accommodate demands for instruction from high school graduates in technical courses and from employed and unemployed adults, its chief officer has told the legislature.

Norman P. Mifby, speaking for the state association of vocational school directors, was among witnesses appealing for more state subsidies of the schools which are now largely supported by local property taxes.

The bill before the senate committee on education proposed to boost biennial state aids to $1,785,000 from the traditional level of $420,000.

Technical Courses

Mifby explained the state is now paying 2.88 per cent share of its current school budget of about $348,000.

He described the increase in demand for terminal instruction in technical courses, mostly on a two year basis, from men and women who already have high school diplomas.

For many sons and daughters of working class families, he said, such education is the substitute for college training. Mifby noted the state is responsible for the financing of those students who attend colleges and the state university, but that it has been reluctant to offer aid to post-high school students in the local adult education schools.

Expect Virginia Legislature to Express Its Views

Richmond, Va. — (AP) — Virginia's legislature was expected to indicate today whether it agrees with Gov. J. Lindsay Almond, Jr., that the state is legally powerless to prevent school integration regarded as imminent in three communities.

Almond said at the opening session of the emergency general assembly yesterday he knew of nothing he could do to avert token integration.

Six closed schools in Norfolk may reopen Monday on a desegregated basis. Arlington has been ordered to admit four Negroes Monday to a white junior high school and Charlottesville is also proceeding with plans to reopen its two schools closed in the integration dispute.

Charlottesville and Arlington school officials planned a last try today for a stay of integration from Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the U.S. fourth circuit court of appeals, in Baltimore.

A group of legislators whose districts have heavy Negro populations indicated they might reach a decision on whether to attempt to go further than the governor proposed. They said a resolution was being studied which they felt might serve to deter any integration.

Young Negro Told Job As House Page Filled

'Quite Embarrassing' Says Congressman Who Appointed Chicago Lad to Position

Washington — (AP) — "The whole thing is quite embarrassing," said the congressman.

"I'm confused," said the Negro boy.

"The whole thing is just unfortunate," said the boy's aunt.

That's how the leading principals sum up the imbroglio that came to a climax yesterday when James A. Johnson, Jr., a 14-year-old Chicago Negro, arrived in Washington to become a page in the house of representatives.

He was told the job was filled.

Assured of Job
The youth said he had been assured of the job by Rep. Barratt O'Hara (D-Ill.). But Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), chairman of the house patronage committee which handles such matters, said the appointment had gone to another Chicago boy recommended by Rep. Thomas J. O'Brien (D-Ill.).

Veteran capitol employees do not recall any Negro ever having served as a house page, but Walter said no racial factor was involved.

Walter said he had told O'Hara there was no opening for young Johnson.

The boy's aunt, Miss Ethel L. Page of Washington, said O'Hara informed her last week that James' appointment had been approved.

She said O'Hara telephoned again the next day to say there had been a slight hitch in approval of the appointment but that James should come to Washington anyway.

Church Leader Scores Class Feelings Among Many Lutherans Today

Madison — (AP) — The keynote speaker at the National Lutheran Evangelism conference said Wednesday that many Lutheran church members are more concerned with "continuity of national background and one race than the real spirit of Christianity."

The statement came from Dr. Conrad M. Thompson, St. Paul, evangelism director for the church. He added that "Lutherans must forget class distinctions where they find it difficult to think there is any bluer blood than Scandinavian or German."

He said that people must think less about the finances of the church and more about the riches of God.

Seek to Link Union Leader With Mobsters

Dorfman Friend of Hoffa, Gangsters, Investigators Say

Washington — (AP) — Senate racketeers investigators said today they are ready to show that former Chicago Labor Leader Paul Dorfman is a friend of gangsters as well as of Teamsters Boss James R. Hoffa.

The special committee reported to the senate a year ago that Dorfman "has maintained a continuous association with Chicago mobsters."

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he hopes to question Dorfman himself about this in a resumption of an inquiry into multimillion dollar group insurance plans maintained for labor union members.

Dorfman already has been described in testimony as the mastermind who, with an assistant from Hoffa, set up his son, Allen Dorfman, as a Chicago insurance agent to handle these plans.

Improper Practices

The elder Dorfman was expelled from the AFL-CIO last year for allegedly improper union practices. At the time, he was boss of the Chicago Waste Materials Handlers union.

Under fire within the AFL-CIO were his relations with management in collective bargaining and the Dorfman family's insurance activities.

Kennedy said he also planned to question Theodore Shulman, head of the Waste Handlers association, an organization of companies with which Dorfman's old union bargained.

Kennedy said he wants to find out whether Dorfman tried to persuade waste paper collectors to leave the AFL-CIO and join Chicago Teamsters local 743 after the teamsters were ejected from the AFL-CIO as corrupt.

Lawmakers Cast Jaundiced Eye at Innocuous Task

Madison — (AP) — Wisconsin lawmakers cast a jaundiced eye today on the time-honored custom of enacting resolutions of congratulation. Republicans said the seemingly innocuous procedure almost cost them their jobs last November.

Assemblyman Frank Graess of Sturgeon Bay, in a complaint lodged with his GOP colleagues, said the appearance of his name on 13 resolutions in the 1957 session gave his opponent some good campaign ammunition. He said his opponent told the voters authoring resolutions wasted time and taxpayer's money.

Something has to be done, Ben Tremaine, Hustler, said. Other Republicans, hoping to avoid any trouble like this in 1960, agreed.

Suggestions included rules changes ending the practice of co-authoring these resolutions or discontinuing having them listed under each lawmaker's name in the bulletin of proceedings.

Most Reliable Missile In U. S. Arsenal Can be Fired on Short Notice

Thor Capable of Being Put in Air From Standard or Mobile Bases

Santa Monica, Calif. — (AP) — America is mass-producing one of its most reliable missiles in a form so simple that crews can fire them in volleys on 15-minute notice—even from mobile bases.

The missile is the 1,500-mile Thor, a combat-ready weapon that also is a work horse in space research.

It can carry a nuclear warhead known as the "county-buster" and is stockpiled at bases in this country and abroad.

But because of its limited range, the future of the Thor is uncertain.

First Press Tour

This picture emerged today after the first press tour of Thor production and testing facilities here and in Sacramento, Calif.

Newsmen yesterday saw parts of more than a dozen Thors on an assembly line at the Douglas aircraft plant here and 17 finished missiles in a storage area.

At Sacramento they saw a demonstration that a hangar-dorm Thor can be made ready to launch by quickly trained crews 15 minutes after the order to fire.

At the factory, officials showed how the Thor and its launching equipment can be packaged for airlift to any part of the world. At the Sacramento site, they demonstrated how a squadron of Thors can be hauled from a landing strip to a hastily rigged launch site.

No permanent concrete emplacements are necessary—only a metal ring on the ground for the missile's tail to rest on while it is being fueled. The missile and its erecting mechanism, its control rooms and electrical generators are all on wheels.

Attest Reliability

A Thor squadron has 15 missiles, all ready to be fired at once, at the same target or at 15 different targets. In the field, each missile requires only four men to fuel and fire it.

Fifteen successes and 12 partial successes out of 31 firings attest the Thor's reliability.

The missile is ready for use right now, air force Brig. Gen. Donald Coupland told newsmen, but that doesn't mean it's operational. There are two other factors.

First, enough crews must be trained to use them. American and British crews are undergoing training now at Vandenberg air force base, Calif.

Second, they must have a target within their reach. And there are no potential targets within reach of Thor bases in the United States. Thor bases in Britain, have not been announced as operational.

Wiley Backs Bill To Set Up Foreign Service Academy

Washington — (AP) — A bill to set up a foreign service academy to train youths for diplomatic service was introduced in the senate Wednesday.

The bill was introduced by Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) and co-sponsored by Sens. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), Richard Neuberger (D-Ore.), Ralph Yarborough (D-Texas) and Clair Engle (D-Calif.).

It's similar to one offered in the last session of congress.

Incredible Clan of Redheads Ask Charlie to Visit Their House

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

De Pere, Wis.—17, 16, 15, 14, 10, 9, 8, 7, 5, 4, 3.

That array of numbers represents the ages of the 11 children—all born redheads—of Mr. and Mrs. Urban Titulaer of the town of De Pere.

Starting place for this generation of ginger-haired youngsters is Mrs. Titulaer, 40, an attractive lady whose own hair is a subdued titian. Dad Urban admits to being nothing more colorful than an ordinary fellow with brown hair.

Although each of the 11 Titulaers was born with a flaming coil, there is presently a sort of de-redding going on. Some of the handsome youngsters have faded into blond while others have "darkened up" a shade.

At present reading, there are eight bona fide red heads among the children: all the girls — Mary Kay, 15; Alice, 14; Jean, 10; Janet Lu, 9; and Margo, 7; and two of the six boys — Dick, 17, and Tom, 16.

Gerald, 8; Michael, 5; John, 4; and Dan 3 range from fair to warmer in the hues on their noggins.

When the patter of little feet in the household reached the proportions of an incessant roar; and when milk and food bills began to look like golf scores, the Titulaer family moved to a farm.

10 Acre Farm

Now the proud owner of 10 acres of farmland a few miles from De Pere, the Titulaer head of the household did some fancy figuring. His two oldest boys, husky and helpful, could and were willing to do the regular farm chores before and after school. Titulaer, employed as the plant foreman for the L. D. Schrieber and Company cheese firm, decided he could manage the farm and work on it in his spare time if it were well planned.

The other children, too, had chores all the way down to 8-year-old Gerald. Gerald's task is to feed the (now 50) Cornish chickens, empty waste baskets, dump the garbage and feed the family's two dogs.

The smaller tots have no regular duty assignments. Said Mrs. Titulaer: "We ran out of work."

The family raises Black Angus beef cattle (18 now) and raises corn, oats and hay for the cattle. A vegetable garden for family needs cuts down the food bills, and an unnamed Holstein cow provides enough milk for the children.

The amount of savings effected by the move to the farm are not estimable at present, said Titulaer, but a $40 milk bill has disappeared and the cost of shoes, worn out on city sidewalks, has been halved.

Many Hungry Mouths

An annual brood of hogs, plus the home-raised beef, provides the meat required for a large, hungry family which has not yet reached its full dietary stride.

The move to the farm was made ("Let's see," said Titulaer, "when was Mike born?") in 1954 when the family was living in De Pere. Every date important to the family is readily recalled by the birthdate of one of the children.

Titulaer, fresh from the army of World War II, came back home from service in the Pacific. He joined the cheese company in ("Let's see, when was Alice born?") in 1945 and rose to become its foreman.

Big, Happy Family

It's a good and a big and a happy family regardless of the hue of their tops'ls, but one of the most talkable things that's happened recently was when the dad was hospitalized after a serious tractor accident. He missed the kids and the kids missed him until Christmas day. Then, like a battalion from a red army, they were permitted to visit him en masse.

The charge of the bright brigade made him happy, and the children happy, too. But the hospital folks are still shaking their heads in disbelief.

Committee Leery About Selling Old Fire Truck

The public safety committee is doubtful whether it will sell the 43-year-old American LaFrance fire truck after all.

Chairman Thomas K. Schneider says the two questions have arisen causing delay while committeemen ponder the situation.

One is whether the truck would be of any use to the civil defense organization. It could be stored at a barn on the city-owned industrial development park, Schneider believes.

The other reason is that there is some fear a private businessman would offer the most money for the truck and use it on a regular basis in connection with business.

"We are doubtful," says Schneider, "that the hand-operated brake will function with precision and regular use, therefore, could be a safety hazard."

The committee has received

Midway Site Backed for UW Extension

Termed Best of 3, Bubolz Asks No More County Delay

The Midway site for the proposed University of Wisconsin extension would be most accessible for Menasha residents and the best place for future expansion, former a half dozen bids, one for as much as $500, it has been reported.

The fire department doesn't need the truck because of the purchase last year of a $26,000 aerial ladder truck. The old machine hasn't been used in recent years because of age and the brake problem, Chief Neumann has said.

State Sen. Gordon Bubolz told the Northside Kiwanis.

Bubolz, chairman of the Appleton citizens committee on the extension location, suggested no further delay by Outagamie and Winnebago counties in selecting the site.

Counties Differ

In addition to the site west of Highway 10 on the Midway road, two others have been proposed. The Twin Cities citizens' committee wants the extension situated east of County Trunk P just north of Ninth street in Menasha, while the City of Kaukauna has advocated a location just north of Highway 41 east of High street in Kaukauna.

"If Outagamie county favors the Kaukauna site, Win-draw from the project. If Winnebago county insists on the Menasha site, there is a strong possibility that Outagamie county will not go along," he declared.

There would be further delay, Bubolz said, if Outagamie county should insist on an Appleton location, since the board of regents would have to reconsider the matter.

Utilities Cited

"Menasha bought a 23-acre plot for school purposes located beside the Midway site," Bubolz said. "If Menasha believes that at least 20 acres is necessary as a minimum acreage for a city school site, then shouldn't we have at least 20 acres for an extension center which serves seven municipalities in the area?" he asked.

Bubolz pointed out that the City of Appleton will extend sewer, water and utility lines to the site. He also asked for ample space to provide outdoor recreation facilities.

"I haven't the slightest doubt that needed indoor recreational facilities can be provided," he stated.

Bubolz predicted that the Midway site would serve the Fox Cities, which may become continuous community.

"Municipalities of both counties can back the site with the feeling that the majority of the people will be behind them," he said.

Current Tenure Proposal Could Foster Tyranny

Sets No Limits On Presidential Terms in Office

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — The dictatorship amendment—as the proposal to remove all limits from the tenure of a president is now being called—hasn't much chance as yet to be passed by congress. But it illustrates a significant and dangerous tendency — the desire of a political group to perpetuate itself in office through the use of governmental machinery. On the surface, the proposed amendment — which would repeal the present constitutional provision limiting a president to two terms—appears to remove a discrimination because, as President Eisenhower said in an off-hand remark at a press conference, any citizen should be eligible at any time to the presidency. But the reasons for the present limitation had little to do with the right of some individual citizen to be a candidate. Rather, the purpose was to prevent any political group or clique from getting a permanent or at least indefinite hold on the White House and the executive branch of the government.

Thus, the patronage and favors which an incumbent administration can bestow are so far-reaching in an electorate, where tens of billions of dollars a year are being spent by the federal government, that it would be easier now than ever before to get a stranglehold on local political organizations and to align pressure groups behind a continuing administration.

Democratic Sponsorship Odd It seems odd, of course, to read that a Democratic party congressman who sponsors the amendment is terribly sorry that Eisenhower is what is called a "lame duck" president. The lament is that Eisenhower cannot wield White House power effectively because he is not permitted to be a candidate to succeed himself. Just why any Democrat should be worried over the fact that Eisenhower is supposedly losing influence in his second term isn't too clear. For logically the present constitutional amendment should be working in favor of the Democratic party, since Eisenhower, it is claimed, can't be politically as strong as he might have been without the third-term prohibition. Theoretically, therefore, the present provision is actually helping to elect a Democrat president in 1960.

Digging a bit deeper into the mystery, it would seem that the Democratic party, which has become the majority party, has much to gain by lifting the ban on presidential tenure and giving the chief executive an indefinite lease on the White House, subject only to one election every four years. If a dictatorship were to arise in America, it could come out of the tremendous power derived by a president from the right to continuous office.

Opposes Limitation This correspondent has always been opposed to any limitation of presidential tenure but only when it is also provided that the people may at any time remove a president or the congress which would elect him. This is what is known as the parliamentary system, which affords the people a chance to keep a good president but to turn one out of office at any time if he isn't satisfactory.

The fixing of a definite date for a presidential election means that political power can be concentrated over a four-year period and the electorate can be confused by a multiplicity of issues at the end of the four years. Under a system, however, whereby an election can be held at any time, the people can focus on a single issue and decide for themselves whether they want a given policy continued or discontinued.

Leadership Not Limited The current proposal — which would give a president the right to succeed himself for as many terms as desired and would require an election only at a fixed date every four years—would permit political dictatorship. This is one reason why the conservatives in both parties in congress will fight it. As a matter of fact, many states have adopted the single term for governors in order to rid themselves of boss rule and and monopoly of a single political organization. Leadership cannot be limited by the constitution. If President Eisenhower should decide to go to the people on any issue which he felt was of a critical nature, he could mobilize public opinion more quickly today than if he were a candidate to succeed himself. For the American people would say that his thinking is not influenced by third-term ambitions and that he is politically disinterested. All the talk nowadays about the weakness of the president's power in his second term is either a political tactic designed to hurt the Republican position or else a means of expressing disapproval because the incumbent has not taken as firm a stand as some people want him to take on particular issues. A president can be powerful if his view on a specific problem of government happens to be sound and a correct reflection of the will of the people.

Testimony in Murder Case Upsets Time Neighbor Says He Saw Woman Alive After 'Death' Date

Houston — (U) — A witness for Howard B. Stickney, accused in the death of Mrs. Clifford C. Barnes, formerly of Madison, Wis., testified Tuesday that the woman was alive here at the time the state contends she was killed in Galveston.

Jack Pulliam, a neighbor of Mrs. Barnes and her husband, testified he talked with Mrs. Barnes on the street near her apartment at 9:40 p.m. May 26. The prosecution alleges she was killed earlier that night on a beach in Galveston. The state is seeking the death penalty. Stickney is on trial on a murder charge in the woman's death. He also is accused of murder in the death of her husband, a highway department draftsman.

Pulliam said he was walking two dogs when he saw Mrs. Barnes and Stickney walking near the apartment. He said one of the dogs ran toward them and jumped up on the woman in a playful manner. He said he spoke to the couple, assuring them the dog would not hurt them. Monday the state introduced a statement quoting Stickney as saying he killed the couple at Galveston, disposed of their bodies and fled to Canada. After his return to Houston, following his arrest by the Royal Canadian Mounted police, Stickney told newsmen he and the Barnes had gone to Galveston on a swimming party and he killed them after drinking beer with them.

Accused of Trying to Bribe AEC Worker

Scranton, Pa. — (U) — Louis Issacs, 53, head of a nuclear research plant at Exeter, was arrested Tuesday by FBI agents and charged with attempting to bribe a representative of the atomic energy commission.

Issacs waived a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Henry Kolb here and posted $5,000 bond pending federal grand jury action. Issacs is manager of the Art Craft company, and principal stockholder in the Metal Research and Development corporation at Exeter, in neighboring Luzerne county.

He is accused of offering a $500 bribe to Vincent R. Hoefling, an auditor working out of the New York City office of the AEC. Carl E. Hennrich, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Philadelphia, said Hoefling was at Issacs' plant going over costs of performance on a contract awarded to metal research by the AEC.

Five Offices to Be Contested in April Election

2 Candidates Have No Opposition, Filing Deadline Indicates

Kaukauna—All but two offices will be contested in the spring election as a result of candidates filing papers at the city clerk's office Tuesday.

Candidates without opposition are Oscar T. Jahns, seeking reelection as justice of the peace, and George Luebke, seeking reelection as fifth ward alderman.

Six candidates filed papers for the three school board posts to be filled including Mrs. Russell Brenzel, Mrs. Al Hartzheim and Norman Gerhart, Sr., incumbents, and Robert Main, Ray DeBruin and Stephen Baisch.

A 3-way race is set for first ward alderman with Arnold Vander Loop, incumbent, being opposed by Luther Grebe and Walter Rutten, Sr. The latter took out and filed papers on Tuesday, Rutten, 56, is self employed as a real estate agent and is trying for office for the third time.

Other Races
The second ward alderman race will have Jewell Toms, incumbent, opposed by Frank Merckx, seeking office for the first time. The third ward will have William Glesheen seeking reelection as alderman while Norman Meinert is his opposition. A third candidate, Warren Koehne, 3715 Main avenue, did not file papers before the deadline.

The only other race is in the fourth ward where Wilfred Powers, incumbent, is being opposed by Robert Clayton Van Dyke. Powers is running for office for the first time, having been appointed to the post in Sept. 1958.

Kimberly Board Will Call for Street Bids

Prices Will Determine Amount of Curb, Gutter and Reconstruction Work

Kimberly—Bids on street reconstruction work to be done this summer will be asked for by the village board after the regular meeting Monday night.

President Alvin Fulcer said work is slated for S. John street, S. Sidney street and that part of Third street between Sidney and John.

Watch Budget
Just what type of work will be done on the streets will be determined by the board after bids are received.

To enable the board to select the type of work that will be undertaken there will be separate bids on curb and gutter installation from the gravel base and asphalt mix road surfacing work. Fulcer said it is possible that the board may decide to put in all the curb and gutter installations this year and just the road base. Finishing surface work would then be done in 1960.

The president also explained that it is possible a portion of the curb and gutter work will be done and part of the road surfacing.

Opened in March
The board will ask for bids to be turned over to the clerk-treasurer and they will be opened at the March meeting.

The board is getting an early start on the planning of work and bidding so that the projects can be started by the weather breaks.

Bids also will be asked for on a comfort station at Roosevelt park on the east side of the village. The building will consist mainly of toilet facilities. It was pointed out to the board last fall that because of an increasing number of residents using the park area it is necessary to have the facilities. These bids also will be opened at the March meeting.

Tie Develops for Second Place in Teenage League

Kaukauna — A tie for second place developed in the Teenage Bowling league, sponsored by the recreation department at Verbeten's alleys, as the Dixie Cups lost two games to the All Stars and the Angels split a 2-game set with Driessens.

The All Stars lead with 15 wins and five losses while the Dixie Cups and Angels have won nine and lost 11. Driessens has a record of seven wins and 13 setbacks.

Dave Smith hit a 202 game and Roger Van Toll a 322 set in two games to share individual honors. The All Stars took team honors with an 852 game and 1,543 series. Other high scores were posted by Roger Van Toll, 163; Jim Kersten, 150; Carol Artz, 132, and Delores Ebben, 130.

Improving KHS Squad to Meet Raiders Friday

Ghosts Again Rate as Underdogs Against Second Place Crew

Kaukauna — After pulling a near-upset over the highly rated Kimberly Papermakers last week the Kaukauna High school cagers will have another opportunity to play spoilers at 8 p.m. Friday when they travel to Two Rivers to meet the Purple Raiders in a Mid-East battle.

The Raiders are tied for second place with a record of six wins and two defeats, their only losses being to Kimberly and co-holders of second place, Shawano. Earlier this season Two Rivers downed Kaukauna 76-65 on the Kaukauna floor.

Coach Gerry Hopfensperger reports the team spirits high despite a heartbreaking defeat last week which saw the undefeated Papermakers rally for 23 points in the final quarter to overcome a 14-point Ghost lead and chalk up a win. Five Kaukauna youths went all the way in last week's game but indications are more will have a chance to see action this week.

Good Shooting

The team had its best shooting percentage of the year in its last outing, due mainly to the style of possession ball played. The Ghosts maintained possession of the ball and tried shots only when a good opportunity presented itself, the majority of points coming on drive-ins or shots from close in to the basket.

Hopfensperger expects to start the same team which started against Kimberly including Ken Kavanaugh, Lee Weyenberg, Gary Vanevenhoven, Myron Zachowski and Jim Steger. Two of the top 10 point getters in the conference, Dale Kozlowski and Dick Knope, spearhead the Raiders attack. The B squads from the schools will meet in a preliminary test at 6:45 p.m.

Kimberly Will Face Menasha Friday Night

Papermakers Still Unbeaten, Aim for Second Over Jays

Kimberly — After a pair of hard fought battles last week-end, Kimberly High will entertain Menasha at 8:15 p.m. Friday.

The Papermakers have run their victory string to 12 straight games and are leading the Mid-Eastern conference with a 8-0 record.

Papermaker Rally — Coach Gil Frank's cagers got some surprisingly tough opposition in two road games last week end. Clintonville Jansen is sixth with 115. Min-fought on close terms with the ten ranks ninth with 87.

Papermakers for three quarters before Kimberly rallied to a 73 to 54 win.

Kaukauna had an apparent victory in the bag before Kimberly exploded for 22 points in the last period while holding the Ghosts to only seven. The Papermakers pulled out a 58 to 55 victory in that one.

Menasha has a 1-7 league record but has dropped some narrow contests. In the first meeting on the Bluejay court Kimberly took a 70 to 62 victory, in the second loop tilt of the season.

Coach Frank will rely on his usual starting lineup of Don Hearden and Dave Minton at guards, Tom Rooyakkers at center and Darrell Jansen and Jack Lamers at forwards.

Hearden is the leading scorer in the conference but his lead has been shaved to 13 points. Hearden has 156 points.

With Leroy Weyenberg of Kaukauna second. Lamers is fourth with 131 markers. Jansen is sixth with 115. Minton ranks ninth with 87.

The winners found the range in the second half getting 18 of their 23 field goals in the third and fourth periods. Geerts scored seven of his buckets in the last half while Ed Hammen had all four of his in the same frames.

Chuters Take Lead

St. John scored 17 in the third period while the Reformatory counted 10 to fall behind 34 to 31.

More or Less Daylight Time

When the people of Wisconsin voted for daylight saving time in 1957, and the legislature subsequently enacted the daylight time law, it appeared the long battle over this subject had been decided. Now, there is indication the struggle will be renewed in the 1959 legislature.

For several months some farm groups, particularly the Farmers Union, have been agitating for a law to shorten the period in which the state operates under daylight saving or even abolish it altogether.

On the other hand, there is some agitation for lengthening the period. Assemblyman Pommerening (R. Wauwatosa) has offered a bill which would extend the period to the last Sunday in October. Under the present law Wisconsin is under "fast time" from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September.

During the past two years objections to daylight time in Wisconsin appear to have lessened. Many farmers have indicated they are quite happy with fast time although some continue to complain. On the other hand, business has indicated the period could be extended.

Assemblyman Pommerening in support of his bill said, "It's important for the industrial development of Wisconsin that we operate on the same schedule as other states with which we do business." During the years Wisconsin was prohibited from taking advantage of fast time, many business firms operated under a handicap in trying to coordinate their Wisconsin business with that in other states. The present law has removed much of that difficulty but other states continue the fast time for a month longer. There will, no doubt, be strong support from business to put the Wisconsin law in harmony with our neighbors, particularly Illinois and Michigan.

So it seems quite probable that Wisconsin will keep all of the daylight time it has and may extend it another month.

Mikoyan Talks to Khrushchev

This account of a famous report is entirely imaginary, but not necessarily entirely fictitious.

Nikita, it's good to be home; better, to talk to you alone, to tell you what I have learned about America, and what I saw and think. I need not point out that I've never been an apple-polisher with you, and that the exact truth, as I see it, is vital to the party and to Russia.

All through my American tour I've kept my guard up, but I flatter myself I spoke with the blunt frankness so dear to the hearts of Americans. I was entirely human. I extolled peace, I discussed trade possibilities, I talked of the Paradise of co-existence, I pleaded for mutual understanding. I hugged babies, tweaked boys' noses (always, you understand, with a few dozen cameras focussed on me), and I visited homes of ordinary Americans, and marveled at what I saw in department stores, supermarkets and motels.

Just this once, I can let my hair down, and I want to tell you that I've enjoyed every minute of it: yes, even the puerile attempts of the Hungarian reactionary fugitives from the people's justice. We could learn something, Nikita, from the police who guarded me. They were so unobtrusive and courteous that I hardly knew they were with me; yet so capable, that I was never for an instant conscious of any danger. Hah, you and I, lessened at another time when our world was in flux, know what danger really is!

Yes, I know, Nikita, that you have read all of this in the newspapers, and that I only confirm what you have read. Yet you yourself have always been contemptuous of our newspapers, which only print what they are told. Forgive me if I philosophize, but that distinction was not lost upon me. The American newspapers have not earned my contempt.

To get down to cases, I was deeply awed by American wealth and power. I did not show it, I trust, by word or gesture. The desire for world peace was greater, even, than we suspected — but so is the almost unimaginable preparation for war.

I retreated, as closely as I could, my itinerary of 22 years ago. I visited the same cities and some of the same factories, and I saw progress — in the normal course of American civilization, mind you — which almost overwhelmed my imagination. No official tried to sidetrack me, and I went where I wanted to go, without restrictions, except to those places closed to all visitors.

I must confess that I wavered at times, regarding our settled policy of forcing capitalism to waste its resources on vast armaments and thus contribute to its own ultimate economic collapse. After my visit to America, I cannot envision their use by our communist compatriots against the capitalists who created them.

The press in America has hinted at a great propaganda victory for us in my visit. We have tried to appear reasonable in the eyes of neutrals and at the same time picture America as marching to her doom, while our only aim is to offer material progress to all the world. How can the many pictures of my tour advance this impression? We're going to have a time catching up with that materialism. Americans were impressed with our sputniks and our new satellite of the sun, but how can we cow a people who have never known defeat in war — and until we ourselves are convinced that we can inflict that defeat, how can we gain by threats?

I saw no parade of military might. Nobody, except some individual show-offs, tried to impress me. We cannot read that as a confession of weakness, any more than as a consciousness of power. If this carries any implication, it is merely that public opinion did not want to offend a guest, and the Pentagon did not care to instruct him.

I followed your advice most carefully. I said that a settlement of the Berlin question could be arrived at by the heads of our states. I made no commitments, and I drew a blank.

It is with the utmost pain that I confirm what you already know. My utmost efforts for better trade relations went for naught. The large credits we want, so that we can "buy" American machinery to compete with and beat down American competition were not forthcoming. I was told that we can buy any non-strategic goods and materials we want, but not with money borrowed from the sellers. I was reminded, unpleasantly, of the debts we have not paid.

In broad terms, that is the gist of my visit. There is an infinite amount of detail that you will want to know, and I to impart to you.

But for now, since you appear somewhat wearied while I know I could do with some hours of rest, I beg you to cogitate upon what I will tell the Soviet Congress this week. It's our twenty-first, and that means we are coming of age. My address must necessarily complement yours. I can be the friendly Armenian salesman, or the upstanding Russian grizzly, intent only on honor and truth, and a sure consciousness of right. You're the boss. I'll follow your line. You'll follow the party line, like the true communist you are. But I won't forget that you are the party.

George Behrendt Had an Important Job

There is an old saying to the effect that a person can feel sorry for himself because he hasn't any shoes until he meets a man who hasn't any feet.

In a sense, George Behrendt represented the fellow without feet to a great many of those who came in contact with him. Behrendt died the other day in a Chicago hospital where he had lived for 13 years. He was taken to the hospital when he was 17 years old, unconscious and suffering from a spine injury received in an elevator accident. The doctors told him he could never walk again and they were right.

But that news, bad as it was, didn't make much difference to George. When he had recovered sufficiently he found that he could transport himself about the hospital by lying face down on a surgical cart and wheel it along with his hands. In this manner he could visit the other patients and he made it his life's work to go about the departments calling on people and cheering them up by imparting something of his own cheerful self.

As time passed the patients, doctors and nurses became his friends. Patients who left the hospital returned to call on him; others sent him greeting cards, visitors at the hospital came to know him and soon there was a constant flow of messages by mail and of people who dropped in for a visit.

Christmas, of course, was a time for all to remember him and last year he received over 4,500 cards. He was so greatly occupied by his self-made job in the hospital that his parents rarely had a chance to visit with him alone unless they took him home for short periods.

One boy who was taken to the hospital to have a leg amputated said he had given up hope. He thought his life was scarcely worth living until he met George and came under the influence of this cheerful, courageous person. Later, he said, "After I talked to him I was ashamed I had ever felt that way."

George Behrendt's example certainly should teach a great many people that no matter how bad their situation may seem there is something that can be salvaged from it and there is a job waiting for everyone if he has the eyes to see it and the courage to perform it.

Is Fund-Council Merger Coercive Move, or Democracy in Action?

'Dimes' Chairman Criticizes National United Fund Group

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The statement in Friday's (Jan. 23) Post-Crescent that the consolidation of the Appleton Community Chest and Council was accomplished "but not without sharp opposition from the leaders of the local March of Dimes" is deliberately misleading and characterizes the interpretive slant given the entire article. However, one vitally important piece of information was elicited and that was given by Harwood Orison, who admitted that the Appleton Community Fund "for some years has been associated with the United Funds and Councils of America, Inc. (hereinafter referred to as United Fund) and that further affiliation would be up to the UCS (United Community Services of Appleton) delegate assembly."

Our sharp opposition was not to any merger of the Appleton Community Chest and Council but to any affiliation with this national United Fund and our reasons are as follows:

1. The United Fund, once established, could easily become a monopolistic monster in control of the charitable purse strings of America, more unfettered and uncontrollable than the huge labor trusts. While there are still a few politicians with courage to fight the abuses found in Hoffa's Teamsters Union and others, how could anyone campaign against the sacred name of charity?

2. The United Fund is out to socialize and depersonalize charity; to remove the freedom of choice as to the objects of our bounty and to debate the charitable act to the level of a withholding tax. It sponsors methods of fund raising under which corporate donors are given quotas and to collect them from employees, employees are forced by economic and political persuasion to "donate" a certain percentage of their pay "or else."

3. The United Fund has declared open warfare on the national health agencies such as March of Dimes, Cancer Society and Heart Fund. On the front page of the Wall Street Journal (July 18, 1958), Ray R. Eppert, vice president of the United Fund, arrogantly warns these health agencies who wish to conduct their own campaigns "to change their policies" or "suffer the consequences."

Doesn't this sound like the petulant but ominous remarks of Khrushchev when he warned the Allies to get out of West Berlin or suffer the consequences? Do we want this caliber of man to control the disposition of over four hundred millions of our charitable dollars?

If there is to be a choice between this socialistic monopoly and the national health agencies, why not look to the lead of the organization most dedicated to the national health, the American Medical Association. At their annual meeting in San Francisco last June, in what was described in the July 19th Journal (P. 1507) as "probably the most debated issue of the meeting," they passed the following resolution:

"1. That the House of Delegates reiterate its recommendation and approval of the principal voluntary health agencies.

2. That it is the firm belief of the American Medical Association that these agencies should be free to continue their own programs of research, public and professional education and fund raising in their particular sphere of interest."

It was this type of resolution, which I introduced at the meeting and which I voluntarily withdrew when it was pointed out that no amendment could be considered without further postponement of the entire merger proceedings. On this basis only did this discussion die a "natural death" and our then abrupt departure was not in hasty retreat but rather was for the purpose of returning to the members and directors of Butte des Morts Golf club, of which both Mr. Barlow and I are directors and officers. Our opposition to the United Fund and any affiliation whatsoever of the UCS with it is very much alive.

New Garment Cutting System

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Jan. 31, 1880.

The new system for cutting garments for ladies and children, invented by Mrs. A. M. Clark, of Madison, Wis., which was awarded a diploma by the Wisconsin State Agricultural Society, has just been introduced in Appleton.

The system has been introduced by Mrs. M. A. Reeve, the well known and popular dressmaker whose rooms are under the Masonic hall. Mrs. Reeve will give instructions in the system, or will sell the right to use it, she being the local agent in Appleton.

The diploma reads: "Awarded to Mrs. A. M. Clark, of Madison, Wis., for the best known Tailors System of Cutting Garments. Exhibition of 1879."

UCS Called Move To Provide Appleton With Better Services

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Last Thursday, Jan. 22nd, an event of major importance occurred in Appleton: The formation of the United Community Services of Appleton, Wisconsin, Inc., a merger of the Appleton Community Fund and the Appleton Community Council. The formation of the UCS is the culmination of a tremendous amount of work and study and is the considered action of countless people as documented in the Outagamie County report on a study of services for Children and Youth which was the result of the White House Conference on Children, 1950.

The purpose of the merger is to improve efficiency and provide better health and welfare services to the people of Appleton.

The UCS is a completely democratic organization. Its leadership is chosen by a broad cross-section of Appleton people.

The organization is controlled by Appleton people and is committed to enlisting of the town's public to take part in its activities — as are all of the health and welfare groups.

UCS's delegate assembly, the overall governing body is representative of all segments of Appleton. Its meetings are always open to the public.

Even Tolerant Found Nelson Message Weak

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Kirby Hendee of Milwaukee and Robert Knowles of New Richmond

among the spokesmen for the Republican cause in the state legislature usually find it difficult to indulge in the slashing, brutal partisanship that is expected if not required of the politician.

The fact that both of them have a considerable personal regard for Gov. Gaylord Nelson, their recent state senate colleague, but yet jumped to their feet to criticize his first message to the legislature the other day, tells a good deal about the impact of that first Nelson state document.

The fact is that almost everybody in the capital, friend and foe and neutral, expected a good deal more from the man who had won the election, because of his steady indictment of the emptiness of Republican thinking and performance.

Hendee probably went to the core of the disappointment when he remarked that for nearly two decades the Democrats have been fertile in their campaign proposals, and that for a decade Sen. Nelson sat in the legislature as one of the promising representatives of that party. Yet as governor, in a speech traditionally devoted to outlining the leadership views and propositions, he offered an essentially barren address.

TOLERANCE

Knowles explained that he and others want to give Nelson a reasonable opportunity to produce his program. There was expected to be a "honeymoon", a kind of a political moratorium, he went on.

But the governor spoke in so many others, that there were so many major topics, and asked for "studies" of pate in UCS whether or not they receive funds from it. The bylaws specifically invite their membership.

Service agencies may not be coerced into membership, nor may contributors be coerced into donating money. Charity is voluntary and will remain that way.

The Community Fund of Appleton has been affiliated with the United Community Funds and Councils of America, Inc. for the last several years. The national organization does not dictate to the local organization, this independent relationship will be preserved.

One hundred per cent of the funds raised by the United Community Services of Appleton stay in Appleton, are used by Appleton people for the benefit of Appleton people. Only nominal dues are paid to the national organization to cover the cost of services received.

This letter is intended to acquaint the citizens of Appleton with the philosophies and safeguards of the newly created UCS, the result of the merger.

Bruce B. Purdy

so many others, that three was little of solid matter left in the message he presented to the lawmakers.

In measuring legislative political reactions to a governor's major message, the citizen must beware of the mechanical postures that are customary in such situations. Always the minority party spokesmen are critical and always the majority party men are extravagant in their praise.

Yet in this instance there might have been found traces of disappointment even in the expressions of the Democrats. The new governor has only been in office two weeks, some of them said. It is not fair to complain yet. Give him a chance to show, they argued.

Which is what Knowles and Hendee were talking about when they expressed their personal esteem for the new executive, but also confessed their disappointment. Clearly they expected more substance from the man who had promised imagination, and courage, and ingenuity, and a progressive approach—but who suddenly acknowledged that he didn't yet know what to say or do about some of the problems he had defined so easily in the legislature and on the stump during the last year.

SAMENESS

The listener in the press gallery is struck by the sameness in these performances. Much of what Nelson said former Gov. Thomson could have said, and did in fact say, without creating any more favorable impression. We can't lean upon the federal treasury much longer, in one breath, and a proposal for more leaning, in another. The recital of the school population load, without any specific proposals to deal with it. A general enforcement of industrial development goals, with another blueprint for a bureaucratic service to attain them. More higher education plant, more and better highways, more social services, a better conservation program, economy in government, efficient administration — all these anybody could have said.

The question in the minds of the audience was: How?

The question in the minds of all men and women of good will must be: When is the new leader of the state government going to prescribe his own answers?

Federal Budget Cut Will be Difficult Job

From The Norfolk, Neb., Daily News

Cutting the federal budget is going to be a hard, and perhaps an impossible job.

Objections to reducing conventional arms and troops, as we come to depend more on long range missiles, go far beyond the generals of the Pentagon. Cutting spending for other recipient groups will bring fights involving powerful influences in congress.

City officials are not only opposing a reduction in funds for urban renewal, the rebuilding of slum areas, they are asking for more and more money. At their meeting at Boston a move was started for a separate cabinet department to handle the distribution of funds to cities and to supervise area reconstruction.

The government is paying more on potatoes than on urban renewal, Mayor Dilworth of Philadelphia complained.

So the mayor in addition to a cabinet post, demands special committees in both senate and house and a White House conference to study the needs of the municipalities. The point is that the pressure from cities for more federal money is going to be strong, and it will take resistance from the budget-cutters to prevent an increase.

This resistance must come from the people, if it is to be effective.

News Is Handled as a Part Of the Theatrical Business

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York—The great editors and reporters of this country asked for no immunities and no protections. They took their chances and assumed their responsibilities.

I am writing of such reporters as Lincoln Steffens, Charles Edward Russell, Samuel Blythe, Floyd Gibbons, Frank Ward O'Malley, H. L. Mencken, Mark Sullivan, and such publishers as William Randolph Hearst, Joseph Pulitzer, William Allen

White, Joseph Medill Patterson—their number is legion in the story of freedom in the United States. These are just names that come to mind, but a little research would fill this column three or four times over with heroic publishers and editors and reporters, long before there was any such thing as a Pulitzer prize or any other gold stars for good conduct. There was no fear among these men and women. And they wanted no immunity from the law. Journalism was a great art and profession in those days and one that paid badly.

Different Thing
Nowadays news is also handled as a part of theatrical business and the manner and tone are different. Television and radio are not newspapers and few men with real newspaper experience have made brilliant careers on these devices, although Hans Kaltenborn, a brilliant reporter and editor, was undoubtedly the greatest reporter on radio.

Edward R. Murrow, who recently attained a new fame as an expert on vice and its relationship to business, has never been a newspaperman. Whatever relationship he has had to news has been with radio and television and as that is show-business rather than journalism, his discipline and training have been different from that of a reporter. Also, as all his work is ephemeral, passing swiftly into the air, he never had the sad experience of having his errors blue-penciled the next morning with an unmistakable warning from the managing editor that there was no shortage of applicants for jobs.

In fact, Murrow's career started with Prof. Stephen P. Duggan's Institute of International Education, an endowed agency for the exchange of students. Murrow left the Institute to join the Columbia Broadcasting system as director of talks and education and from that he moved into news. It is not important that Ed Murrow chooses to be regarded as an expert news gatherer. The fact is that he is not a newspaperman and cannot be recognized as one. From any standpoint he is an actor, a profession to which some fine people admit that they belong. The theater is great art, but play-acting is not journalism.

Fashionable For Some
Although it has recently become fashionable for some younger newspapermen to ask for immunity from responsibility, it is not custo-

Agreement Provides Wage Increases, New Vacation Setup

Milwaukee — UP — A new 15-month contract with the Wisconsin Telephone company was expected to establish a pattern for 1959 settlements in the Bell system—was announced by the Communications Workers of America Tuesday night.

The telephone company demonstrated its desire to deal realistically with the problems that existed and the union finds the new agreement very satisfactory. Joseph A. Beirne of Washington, CWA president, said, "The contract covers 6,300 workers in Wisconsin. The union represents 300,000 workers in the U. S. The agreement provides wage increases of $1 to $3 per week for telephone operators and $2 to $5 for plant craftsmen, an average of 2 to 3 cents an hour.

Operators in Milwaukee started at $51 and were advanced to $68 in six years under the old contract. Plant craftsmen have four separate wage scales with, as an example, cable splicers starting at $56 and advanced to $114.50 in six years.

The new pay scales were made effective Jan. 28, 1959, the day after the old contract ran out.

New officials also said the new contract provides for four weeks of vacation for employees with more than 30 years of service. A separate agreement cov-

Ike Asks Congress to Cut Farm Price Props

and cautioned against adopting any of them.

"Difficulties of the present program should not drive us to programs which would involve us in even greater trouble," he said.

Burden on Consumer

"I refer to direct payment programs, which could soon make virtually all farm people dependent, for a large share of their income, upon annual appropriations from the federal treasury.

"I refer also to various multiple price programs, which would tax the American consumer so as to permit sale for feed and export at lower prices."

In general, Eisenhower's recommendations would make no drastic changes in present programs — only allow the agriculture department more flexibility in setting price supports for products required to be supported by the government. Under such authority lower supports — and hence lower government outlays — would be expected to follow.

As predicted, the administration was content to stand pat for this year on specific programs for cotton, rice, corn, other feed grains, oil-seed crops, livestock, dairy products and fruits and vegetables.

Eisenhower sought to show that present programs actually help only a relatively few commodities and they are the ones that have produced the farm surplus.

Some Markets Grow

"Farmers who produce cattle, hogs, poultry, fruits, vegetables and various other products, the prices of which are not supported — as well as those who produce crops the prices of which are supported at discretionary levels — have generally experienced growing markets rather than a buildup of stocks in warehouses," he said.

He added that wheat, corn and cotton, three of the 12 products on which support levels are mandatory, "account for about 85 per cent of the federal inventory of price supported commodities, though they produce only 20 per cent of the total cash farm income."

Eisenhower himself made only two general recommendations.

He proposed that prices for those commodities sub-put in operation: The missiles, trained crews, launching sites, logistics to support the bases.

McElroy paused, consulted subordinates and finally answered further questions by saying he believes that at the moment one crew is in the process of training.

The first operational base will be in use at Camp Cook, Calif., next June, he said, and the training is going ahead with that in mind.

Four other bases are in various stages of preparation, McElroy said. Four are for the Atlas ICBM and one for the less-developed Titan.

As for how long will it take to complete them, McElroy said they will be finished "in consonance with the program."

"The program," he said, "is classified."

In any event, the secretary assured, crews will be ready when bases are.

He also rebuffed a question on the production rate for missiles for the next two years on grounds of secrecy.

Weiss and the secretary agreed that until the nation gets an ICBM to the operational stage, it must have deterrent, retaliatory "strength in being." Weiss said the Regulus and Snark were among the items of such strength.

In hearings last year, Weiss said, was testimony that the Regulus was "a top notch, high grade deterrent weapon" in which $200 million had been spent, with the intention of having it in operation with the fleet by March, 1960. Why was such a highly regarded weapon cancelled? he asked.

McElroy said originally the experts had figured on a 2-year gap between perfection of the Regulus and the better Polaris, but now the gap has been reduced to only a few months.

"It appears," he said, "that science has overtaken the Regulus II."

The secretary conceded that the Polaris has not been fully tested but voiced an opinion that it is a weapons system on which there can be complete reliance.

Sitting in were members of the senate watchdog preparedness subcommittee and new senate space group. Johnson is chairman of both.

Hope to Settle Dispute Over Asylum Issue

Cuban Minister to Meet With Chiefs of Other Nations

Havana — Cuban Foreign Minister Roberto Agramonte planned to meet today with chiefs of Latin American diplomatic missions in what may be an attempt to settle a growing dispute over diplomatic asylum.

The legal processes against the so-called "war criminals" in the Havana area continued at a near standstill. In the port city of Manzanillo yesterday a general strike was held to protest the acquittal of a soldier in former dictator Fulgencio Batista's army. Leaders of the demonstration charged the revolutionary forces were getting too lenient.

No New Executions

No new executions were reported yesterday, although 32 persons are known to be under death sentences in various parts of the country. The unofficial total of those executed since the rebels took power is 257.

The sharpest criticism of the revolutionary government to date from Cuban newspapers has been brought on by the government's apparent in-attention of trying to get hold of some 40 or 50 associates of Batista who took refuge in Latin-American embassies in Havana.

Latin-American diplomats privately make no bones that they believe the new government is not living up to the letter of its commitments under inter-American treaties on the right of political asylum, that cardinal right of Latin-American politicians which gave Fidel Castro refuge in Mexico at one time, for example.

Study Cases

The revolutionary government, after permitting around 40 refugees to leave the embassies for foreign parts, abruptly said it wanted to study the rest of the cases on an individual basis.

Agramonte has indicated this would be to determine if some could be charged as common criminals, not entitled to political asylum abroad.

If an embassy refused to give up anyone so charged, he would have to stay in the embassy indefinitely.

Some sources say the chief issue is who will determine if criminal charges apply.

Havana's Diario De La Marina and El Mundo yesterday criticized the government's position and called on it to live up to Cuba's commitments.

New Proposal May Give State 72nd County

Menominee Land
Seen as First One
Set Up Since 1901

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — If the legislature creates Menominee county out of the Menominee Indian reservation in north central Wisconsin as proposed by the Indians, it will be the first new county established in this state for nearly 60 years.

The county would be the 72nd, if the legislature acts favorably upon the plan of the Indians, as expected. The Indian county plan is a part of a termination blueprint prepared under congressional act which contemplates the release of federal government controls over the affairs of the Indians at the end of next year.

The last previous act of the legislature setting up a county was in 1901, when the lawmakers detached a part of Chippewa county and established it as Gates county. Four years later the name Gates was dropped and Rusk substituted.

Other New Ones

Other comparatively new counties of the state include Vilas county, in the north-eastern lakes region, which was formed with the detachment of a part of Oneida county in 1893; Iron county, which was formed through the detachment of a part of Ashland county in the same year; Forest county, formed in 1885 when sections of Langlade and Oconto counties were detached, and Oneida county, which was created in 1885.

In recent years there has been agitation for consolidation of sparsely settled counties in upper Wisconsin. Such campaigns have not elicited much support in the legislature. The proposed county of Menominee, with a population around 3,300, would be one of the smallest, population-wise. With about 385 square miles of expanse, however, it would rank favorably with half a dozen others.

Inspecting Cars as They Were placed on display at the Valley Fair Auto show, left to right, are Dan Cloud, Lyle Hickenbotham, Wallace Parent, and Richard Malchow. The show will be held at the shopping center from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. today and Friday.

WAWA Organizes

Agricultural Writers in State Honor UW Editor Bryant Kearl

Post-Crescent News Service

Madison — Formal organization of the Wisconsin Agricultural Writers Association was completed here Wednesday.

As their first official act, after adopting a constitution, the newsmen bestowed on Bryant J. Kearl, Madison, an honorary membership. Kearl is editor of agricultural extension at the University of Wisconsin.

Gene Devine, farm editor of the Sheboygan Press, was elected president. Robert C. Bjorklund, of the State Journal, Madison, became vice president and Ray Pagel, of the Green Bay Press-Gazette, was named secretary - treasurer. They had served as provisional officers the last year.

Restricted Membership
Membership in the association is restricted to employees of daily newspapers and wire services who devote at least part of their time to writing agricultural news and features. Honorary memberships, limited to one a year, may be extended to persons who have performed outstanding service to agriculture.

The organization will hold its annual meetings during Farm and Home week at the University of Wisconsin. Special meetings may be called by the executive board.

Two special meetings were held last year. One was at Francis Creek to observe the operations of the Wisconsin Feeder Pig cooperative. The other was held at Madison for a briefing on vertical integration by university professors and a tour of the new university experimental farm at Arlington.

Forestry School
Tentative arrangements were made Wednesday for a special "forestry school" in Marinette county in advance of the farm progress days program. A follow-up meeting at Arlington also was proposed.

Twelve men are listed as charter members. By a special provision of the constitution, they will be eligible to maintain their membership status for life. The Post-Crescent is a charter member.

Ask More Export Cargo For Great Lakes Ports

Letter to Benson Indicates the High Cost of Needless Inland Transportation

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The Brown County Harbor commission today joined the Great Lakes harbor protest to agriculture Sec. Ezra Taft Benson over the limited use of lakes ports as exporting points of federal farm surplus shipments to Europe and the Middle East.

A report sent to Benson, of which John Sainsbury, county port director, was one of 13 signers, pointed out that "virtually none of the more than 6.6 million metric tons exported in fiscal year 1958 under public law 480 moved via Great Lakes ports, despite the fact that many of the farm surplus products are raised and stored near these ports.

"Movement of this cargo via the Great Lakes ports, if this had occurred, would have resulted in significant savings in inland transportation costs to the government and to the taxpayers," a letter to Benson said.

Steps Proposed
The joint statement proposed that steps be taken by the department of agriculture and a congressional committee to permit Great Lakes ports to get a larger share of the farm surplus exports. The letter reported that the joint report also was being sent to the White House and to congressional delegations from mid-west states.

"There have been instances where cargo has been moved from points within a few miles of Great Lakes ports to Atlantic and Gulf ports for shipment abroad. The inland transportation costs in such instances have been considerably higher than they would have been if the cargo had been moved to and exported from a Great Lakes port," the statement said.

The statement also points out that American flag service will be coming to the Great Lakes next year with the opening of the St. Lawrence seaway and that steps should be taken now to change exports to lakes ports, which was result in savings to the taxpayer.

Labor Council Starts Political Action

Asks Outagamie Board to Seek New Site for County Airport

The Appleton trades and labor council began an attempt to make its influence

Kobussen felt on the Fox Cities political scene Wednesday night. The council passed a resolution asking the Outagamie county board to appropriate no more money for expansion of the present county airport on Ballard road. The county should build a new airport at another location, the council agreed.

"We need a modern airport that can handle all kinds of aircraft," President Albert Kobussen commented.

"Business and industry want the best transportation facilities possible. The present airport will always be second or third rate. It certainly won't attract new business."

The council turned down a request by Dick F. Zingsheim that it go on record opposing Mark Catlin, Jr., as a candidate for Seventh Ward supervisor.

Both Defeated

Both Zingsheim, a Democrat, and Catlin, Republican, were defeated in the First District assembly race last fall by Kenneth E. Priebe, who ran as an independent.

The council asked greater cooperation between Appleton ferences in selecting the site of a new University of Wisconsin extension center, the labor organization stated.

Fischer Kramer

Sites proposed on County Trunk P, just north of Ninth street in Menasha, or the one on Midway road west of Highway 10 are equally agreeable to the council, Kobussen said. Alois C. Fischer, business agent for the operating engineers' union, was named chairman of the council's committee on political education.

Harold Kramer, International

al Firefighters' local, was named legislative chairman.

He will attend city council meetings and report back to the labor council.

Presentation of the council's new charter will be made at an officers' dinner meeting after lent, Kobussen reported.

New TB Unit To be Bought

Research Project Set In Memory of Late John R. Riedl

A new $30,500 x-ray unit will be in Appleton May 12, 13 and 14 under the sponsorship of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. The Appleton branch of the association voted to donate $2000 toward purchasing the new unit.

The latest apparatus for x-raying will be used in the new bus. Over the last six years, more than 20,000 people have been checked for tuberculosis. Other association branches throughout the state will share in donations needed for the purchase of the improved unit.

The group voted to sponsor a $250 research project in tuberculosis at the University of Wisconsin in the name of the late John R. Riedl. He had served continuously for 18 years on the Appleton WATA board.

Final plans were made for the skin test program to begin Monday at all Appleton public and parochial schools and the Appleton Vocational school. Students in fourth, eighth and twelfth grades will be tested Monday through Wednesday and results will be given to the school nurses by Friday.

Assisting in the project will be Mrs. Harry Hoeftel, Mrs. T. H. Hartman, Mrs. Lolita Schade, Mrs. Gerald Schornisch, Mrs. John Milhaupt, Mrs. Rex Spencer, Mrs. Oscar Reinke, Mrs. E. C. Jesse and Mrs. William Pickett.

The unit set the annual meeting date for May 5.

Library Grants Student Passes

Permanent passes will be issued to senior high school students to use adult facilities, the library board of directors decided at their monthly meeting. Students may get the pass from their teachers. In the past, students needed a special pass, issued at the library desk, to use adult facilities.

Mrs. Doris Cruger, head of the library's adult services, told the board about public relations policies of libraries and library trustees throughout the country.

director's convention in April at Chicago. director; Russell Thorne, Appleton High school orchestra director, and Francis N. Sholtz, St. Joseph band director. Mrs. Kiel will be featured vocalist.

Background of the various musicians includes experience with local orchestra and such nationally-known organizations as Wayne King, Sonny Dunham and Tex Bayless. Mr. and Mrs. John Baria, dance co-chairmen, have announced party goers will be served refreshments throughout the evening at cafe tables. Tickets may be obtained from Mr. and Mrs. Leo Pankratz and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Fuerst or from parents of band members.

From left, are Norman Fenske, Appleton, Miss Gladys Nelson, Menasha, Mrs. William Stacker, Jr., Appleton, and Mr. Stacker, Jr. Proceeds from sale of refreshments, donated by Appleton business firms, will be turned over to the March of Dimes.

Our Children

Youth's First Love Big Influence on Teenager

BY ANGELO PATRI

Said his mother to his father, "Something is happening. I can't make it out, but Don is studying. And he is studying himself up. Did you notice that he had put on his necktie? And I haven't smelled cigarettes on him lately. I'm wondering—"

Sister giggled. "Wonder no longer, mother dear. It's Clarabelle. She is Don's girl. She told him flatly that she was not dating any dubs. His marks would have to come up or else—and she wasn't dating any boy who smelled like the backroom in Sweet's shop either. Hence the reformation."

"Can you beat it?" said mother. "I can talk until my tongue blisters and nothing comes of it but this child, scarcely out of her rompers, speaks, and he jumps through the hoops."

"Never doubt the power of a woman," said father. "Lucky she happens to be on your side."

Lucky indeed are the parents and the boy—or the girl, who's steady looks up the social scale, up the ethical standards and takes his partner along with him. Never discount the influence of the chosen friend.

Avoid Jealousy Try not to be jealous of this association. Every parent feels a twinge of pain to see the child of his tender care turning to an outsider for companionship. Few can watch a child being influenced by another to change his attitudes and his behavior but when the changes are for the good it is the thing to go along, discreetly praise the friend and make him welcome.

Above all, don't tease, don't taunt, the child about his new-found alliance. That sets resentment in his mind and it is likely to be lasting long after the alliance has been broken up and forgotten. Accept it and make the best of it.

But what is to be done when the friend's influence is not for the better but is for the worse? Be patient and for the Considering West's heart holding and North's expressed preference for spades, West might well have opened a low trump. Declarer then would have had to make quite a guess (putting up dummy's king) to avoid immediate trouble.

Actually, however, East chose to lead his top club. The queen won and the heart was led to South's ace. A heart ruff followed, then a diamond to the ace, and a club toward dummy. South felt that if West had opened a singleton, it was better to let him ruff the trick without killing one of dummy's hon- ors. At it was, however, West had to follow suit, and the club king won.

South ruffed a diamond in his own hand and another heart with dummy's spade.

Zoo Pictures, Specially Framed for a Child's Room

So much striking decoration for the walls of a child's room is close at hand in his worn books—the wonderful, colorful illustrations of the subjects he likes best to look at—zoo animals. Simple, narrow frames bought ready-made are just right for them, when for an extra added attraction, the fierce animals are put behind cage bars when they're framed.

Space round-headed brass nails at the top and the bottom of the frames and loop wire behind the nail heads to form the cage bars. This is easy to do and produces both a more individual effect for the pictures, to suit your ideas of room decoration, and what will seem like more realism to him to please the child.

Wife Tired of Husband Twice Her Age, Wants Another Choice

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN: I'm 28 years old and married to a man 51. We've been married 11 years and have four beautiful daughters. I was only 17 when I married — too young to know what it was all about. He's always been a traveling salesman and I had big ideas about going on the road with him, staying in fancy hotels and eating in restaurants. It didn't work out that way. I got pregnant a few months after we married and could not travel. Then I had to stay home to care for the baby. The following year another baby was on the way. Before I knew it I was stuck at home with four kids and my husband was gone from Monday till Friday. I've met a man who loves me and the children. He wants to divorce his wife (they have no family) and marry me. I want to go through with it but I'm afraid my husband will take the kids away from me and give them to his sister who is childless. He is good to me and the kids and I buy anything I want. But I don't love him. What can I do?—VY

Dear VY: You can stop cheating on a man who is beating his brains out to give you "anything you want". You know how old he was and what he did for a living when you married him. Your two oldest children are no longer babies. What must THEY think about a man hanging around Mama when Papa is gone? You bet he could take the kids away from you, and he should if you carry on in this manner. Get an outside job if four children aren't enough to keep you busy during your husband's absence. Marriage is for keeps. You don't just throw in the deck and ask for a new shuffle if you don't like the deal.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My question does not fall in the love/lorn category but I notice many people write to you about other things. Please answer if you can.
I was born in the Middle East and educated in England. Since coming to America four years ago I've been struck repeatedly by a curious habit of American fathers. So often when one inquires if a man has a family he says "Our son is 6'1" and weighs 200 pounds." These statistics are announced with great pride—as if it were an accomplishment of some kind.
I've been all over the world and your country is the only place where this is done. Why?—JOHN BULL
The "vital statistics" are designed to impress you. A truly intelligent parent will not mention height and weight. In the absence of something valid to brag about—such as achievement—parents mention height and weight in an unconscious effort to substitute quantity for quality.
DEAR ANN: In defense of the state of dress (or undress) for uninhibited afternoon callers, may I say a word?
The present day American economy is based on three shifts. Some of us are nurses, waitresses, factory employees, or we are married to men who work from 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. Why should we be criticized by an insurance salesman who finds us looking less than glamorous when he arrives unannounced at our door?
How would he look if he were hauled out of bed at 2:00 a.m. Well, to us noon is the same thing. It's bad enough to be jangled out of a sound sleep by an unwanted caller but to be criticized in print is too much.—ROSE A.

A Lovelier You By Mary Sue Miller

Some women have a false notion that the muscles soften up when you wear a girdle all the time. They are the same women who go without a girdle most of the time and so only look trim part of the time.
Actually, there is a good effect on the muscles in a properly fitted girdle. It sort of nudges you to pull up and in. And habitually performed, those actions are as useful in firming the muscles as formal exercise.
To get all the good a girdle has to offer, it is wise to make your selections in consultation with a corsetiere, and then to judge the fit by these rules: Sit and make sure there is no undue pull on the garters, no pinch in the waist and bend of the thigh. Stand to see that no bulging occurs at the waist or thighline; that the fit is snug but not constricting.
Passing those tests, girdles do the utmost to sustain a trim, firm figure.

No Need for Thank-You Each Month

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Since my husband's death several years ago, his former employer add friend has sent a check to me each month and he has told me that he will continue sending it as long as I live. I would like to know if it is necessary to write him a thank-you note each month upon the receipt of the check.

Answer: No, you do not thank him every month as the checks you endorse will let him know that you have received them. You have surely already expressed your thanks to him and you continue to write him two or three times a year. You give him your news and tell him how well you are getting along and let him know how much his generosity is helping you and how thankful you are.

Invite One Time

Dear Mrs. Post: As a friendly gesture, we called on some new neighbors. They returned our call. Since that time they have invited a few of us together who called on them, for cocktails. We found we had little in common with them and didn't care to encourage further friendship. We ourselves are now giving a large cocktail party and having all of our friends and most of our neighbors. Can we ignore the new ones?

Answer: Not possibly without deeply offending them. If it were a small party you could omit them, but not a large general party. In the future you can always have another engagement when they invite you to their house and you need not invite them again.

Widow's Name

Dear Mrs. Post: I am always in doubt as to how to address a letter to my widowed aunt. Though I know it is correct to address her Mrs. John Doe, she goes by the name of Mrs. Mary Doe. Should I use the name she does or the one that is correct?

Answer: If you know that she wishes to be known and addressed as Mrs. Mary Doe you should do as she wishes even though it is not correct.

West De Pere Man Confesses Series of Thefts

Green Bay — One of two brothers arrested after an attempt to break into an Oconto Falls service station early Wednesday morning has admitted a series of other burglaries in northeastern Wisconsin.

Ervin E. Ness, 25, W. De Pere, admitted burglarizing and setting fire to the Lone Oak tavern, on Highway 54 in the town of Hobart, Dec. 27. Five dollars in change and 28 bottles of liquor were missing.

He admitted another burglary at Appleton's service station in Oneida, just inside Outagamie county.

Ervin is being held by Oconto county authorities. Brown county police are questioning his brother Donald, 22.

Sheriff Lt. Jack Frenz is in Green Bay today to question both men on recent Outagamie county burglaries.

Highway Program

Nelson Asks Road Analysis To Back Up Bond Proposal

Madison — The state highway commission has been directed to prepare an analysis of Wisconsin super-highway needs that Gov. Gaylord Nelson will use in backing up his forthcoming highway bond proposal to the legislature.

Nelson has resolved to ask the legislature to approve an amendment to the state constitution that would enable a limited and specific highway borrowing program. He has directed Harold Plummer, chairman of the state highway department, to analyze highway traffic data to spell out the need for such action.

Specifically, he has asked for an analysis of the traffic patterns on those roads which are the main travel arteries to the northern Wisconsin vacation country, including U. S. highways 51 and 41.

He is reasonably certain, he told a press conference here, that the state needs to accelerate its main line road building program. He also is convinced that the money for such a speeded-up road-building effort cannot be diverted from the present construction and local road subsidy budgets.

Wants List

He wants a listing of projects needed, he said, because "we don't want just a loose amendment to the constitution for road building in general. We must be specific."

Nelson said he would also embody a program of help to major cities to provide for thruways and local access road improvement. This was probably a reference to the huge expressways program charted by Milwaukee county on which relatively slow progress is being made.

(Members of the Big Milwaukee county delegation in the legislature have already said privately that they will be reluctant to back a highway bond program unless it contains some promise of aid for their expressways program.)

The governor has repeatedly emphasized that the state needs better arteries leading into the northland, where hundreds of thousands of vacationers come each year. It was in connection with his outlining of the possibilities of rebuilding Highway 51 into a four lane route, and extending Highway 41 directly northward from Appleton in the Fox Valley, that he talked about a revival of the toll road idea in Wisconsin.

Startles Reporters

Nelson's mention of toll roads startled statehouse correspondents who knew that a state turnpike commission had reported half a dozen years ago that such a project would be impracticable in Wisconsin and that since that time the new federal interstate road system has incorporated the reconstruction of a north-south route along Highway 12 as a freeway. That route had been studied as a possible route for a toll road.

But Nelson says he conceives the possibility of a partial toll system on such a road

"The Peter Pan collar and the little puffed sleeves fit in here, but THOSE parts of the pattern seem to be missing!"

as Highway 51 reconstructed "Maybe a charge of two cents a mile wouldn't be feasible. But perhaps it could be something less, and thus become a kind of subsidized toll route," he said.

The governor also explained the recent incident involving a speech by John Reynolds, of the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance, forecasting a $250,000,000 highway bond proposal by the state administration. Nelson said there had been a misunderstanding about that, and that he has not yet settled on a prospective highway borrowing figure.

The $250,000,000 sum had earlier been mentioned as suitable by John C. Lobb, head of a citizens commission studying metropolitan government problems in Milwaukee county, which is worried about financing its huge expressways blue-print.

Jaycees Set Contest for High Schools

Five high schools will compete in the Junior Chamber of Commerce "True Security" contest, announced James Burns, committee chairman. Competing to enter an area representative in state competition are Freedom, Kaukauna, Kimberly, St. John of Little Chute and Appleton High school.

Students participating must write and record their script on "This Is My True Security," an analysis of personal initiative and self-reliance as the best means of individual security in life.

The contest will be run on two levels — for seniors and for juniors and sophomores.

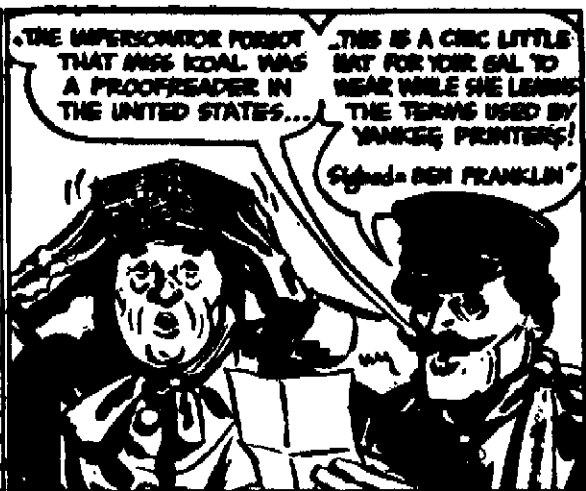

Judging at school levels will be Feb. 19. Winners will be announced March 3 and will be awarded prizes at a Jaycee banquet.

A tape recording of the county winner will be sent with the original script to the state contest where the winner will receive a plaque and all-expense trip to the annual national awards program in Washington, D. C.

Heart Fund Drive Chairmen Chosen

Walter Chrapla Names Division
Leaders for Twin City Campaign

Neenah — Committee chairmen have been named for the Neenah-Menasha campaign for the Wisconsin Heart fund by Walter Chrapla, Twin City drive chairman. The state goal is up 10 per cent over last year to a total of $530,000.

Sunday, Feb. 22, has been designated as Heart Sunday and a door-to-door solicitation will be made that day.

Committee appointments include Herbert Pagel, associate chairman, Mrs. Fred Leech and Mrs. David Ryan, Heart Sunday chairmen to head the residential solicitation; Robert DiRenzo, special gifts chairman whose division will make its contacts Feb. 10 and 17; Carl Geisler, industrial solicitation chairman whose division also will call on local businesses Feb. 10 and 17; James Auer, publicity chairman; and Robert Campbell, treasurer.

"These division leaders will head an army of volunteer men and women who feel that the battle against heart and blood vessel diseases made possible by the proceeds from the Heart Fund campaign, is worthy of a few hours of personal effort in addition to their contributions," Chrapla said.

Mail Fraud Cases To Be Watched for By Postmasters

Menasha — Postmasters John Backes of Menasha and George Rasmussen of Neenah announced they will cooperate with the government in bringing to justice persons victimizing the public through the mails.

Among the schemes used are offering to act as agents and then fraudulently obtaining advance fees; selling vending machines by overexaggerating the profits that can be derived; work-at-home schemes when the swindler assures the buyer of a machine he will purchase and resell any goods produced; and the easy-to-win contests which consist of an open invitation to the public to win a "prize" by the performance of a relatively simple task.

Friday Is Deadline For Tax Installment

Neenah — Friday is the last day for taxpayers using the installment plan to pay their first quarter of the 1959 taxes, City Treas. Walter H. Loehner reminded property owners today.

The office will be open during the day and from 5 to 7:30 p.m. to receive those payments, he said. All of the special assessments and 25 per cent of the real estate tax must be paid as the first installment.

The other installments are due by March 31, May 31 and July 31.

Neenah Lions to Stage Annual Sports Show

Club Spent $1,200 on Civic Projects
From Profits of Last Year's Program

Neenah — The Neenah Lions club has chosen March 21 as the date for its 13th annual sports show which will be held in both the new and old gyms of Neenah High school.

It was through this program last year that the club was able to set up its philanthropic and civic budget for 1958-59 in the amount of $1,200.

Contributions paid from this $1,200 were $150 for the Christmas program which included $100 in toys for needy children and $50 in food baskets for two needy families. $100 to the Visiting Nurse association for a hospital bed, $100 to Theda Clark Memorial hospital for three all-purpose carts; $100 to Neenah-Menasha Family Service for two small radios and a television set; and $50 to the Neenah-Menasha Association for Retarded Children for its summer recreation program.

It also provided $50 for the Neenah High school football basketball dinner, $200 for the bicycle reflective tape program, $250 for the Wisconsin

Lions club for the visually handicapped, for which $200 went for equipment and $50 to sponsor two children at the camp, and another $200 for miscellaneous projects, plans of which have not been completed.

The money made on this year's program will determine the projects the club will be able to set up for 1959-60. All profits made on the sports show go to the philanthropic program.

The main program of the sports show will be from 8 to 10 p.m. that evening with more than $1,500 in prizes to be distributed. Different from previous sports shows will be the dance from 10 to 12 p.m. which will feature a 12-piece orchestra.

General chairmen for the program are Fred Michel and Dr. H. P. Jacobi while Howard Boehm will be in charge of local arrangements and John Kuester heading up the entertainment committee.

Marriages, Divorces

Cane to Outline Proposed State Family Law Changes in Radio Talk

Menasha — Assemblyman Arnold J. Cane of Menasha will speak over the state radio council network at 4:30 p.m. Friday on "Proposed Changes in Marriage and Divorce Laws." The 15-minute program may be heard over the state FM station, WHKW, at Chilton.

Cane has been vice chairman of the family law committee which has been studying the marriage and divorce laws for two years and he presented its findings and recommendations to the legislative council recently.

Wisconsin was one of the first states to undertake a study of its family laws and on its committee were three legislators, three lawyers recommended by the family law section of the state bar association, three judges, three clergymen, three social workers and three representatives of the public.

This committee had more than 20 full day meetings in addition to numerous subcommittee meetings and studies of problems by individual members.

Broken Marriages

From its beginning, the Menasha assemblyman pointed out, the committee dedicated itself to the promotion of stability and best interests of marriage and the family. The committee felt that more sociological problems arose from broken marriages than at first meet the eye, and therefore felt the consequence of the marriage contract are more significant to society than other contracts.

One of the changes it recommended was the solemnization of marriages only by clergymen and judges of courts of record, feeling the sanctity and dignity of the marriage ceremony was lacking in those performed by justices of the peace or court commissioners.

It also proposed raising the marriageable age of females from 15 to 16 and making it more difficult to enter into a second marriage while not fulfilling the obligation to children of a previous marriage. Cane said the committee was concerned sharply about the rising number of marriages entered into when there has been a previous marriage in which the father or mother is not providing for the children of that marriage.

This has accounted for a large percentage on aid to dependent children rolls at a terrific cost to the taxpayer.

Divorce Laws

It also favored changes in the divorce statutes, one of which would be to replace the

House Trailer Struck By Car on Highway 21

Oshkosh — A trailer home being towed by Nelson A. Haase, 43, route 1, Winneconne, was damaged on the left side when struck by a car driven by Kathleen A. Morrissey, route 1, Omro, on Highway 21 at 9:04 p.m. Wednesday. The Morrissey car was turning into a driveway when it slid into the oncoming house trailer, which was owned by Lawrence Busse, route 2, Omro.

Both Parties Contribute Benefits, Rotarians Told

Menasha — Wisconsin residents can benefit from contributions both the Republican and Democratic parties will make for the welfare of all, Menasha Rotarians were told Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Ralph Norem, chairman of the Oshkosh State college political science department and Winnebago County Democratic party chairman, pointed out neither party has a monopoly on integrity and wisdom.

The guest speaker said each party is similarly organized with each having a statutory and voluntary organization. Each organization holds its own state convention and has its own officers, he stated.

Never Effective
Membership in the statutory organization, which is created by law, is only open to persons elected precinct committeemen in the September primary. Norem maintained the organization was never an effective instrument for conducting campaigns.

He said the four "mavericks" now holding the balance of power in the 74th regular session of the legislature are an element of political liberalism in an otherwise consistently conservative party.

The speaker related 35 men have served as Wisconsin governors since 1848. This includes a Whig, a Progressive, seven Democrats and 26 Republicans. The last two times the Democrats held the governorship was in 1890 and 1932.

He pointed out that for a decade following 1946, the Republican party was the dominant party in the state. With the Democratic victory this year Wisconsin once again has two political parties, he said.

Oleo Tax, Color Laws Under Fire

Cane, Abraham Want to Repeal Long-Standing Restrictions

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Cane and Abraham are proposing the repeal of the state's 24-year old laws restricting distribution and use of oleomargarine.

Rep. Arnold Cane, Menasha, said he would sponsor a repeal of the state's anti-oleo tax law, with the help of Rep. Harvey Abraham, Oshkosh. Both are Republicans.

The repeal bill, often offered in previous legislatures, may get more support this year because of the steady increase in the proportion of urban representation in the legislature. Consumer groups back such legislation. Historically farm groups have favored margarine restrictions, but they have been less insistent upon such laws lately and occasionally a farm organization has favored repeal of the embargo statutes.

Teachers withdrew 3,309 books for use in their classes. Periodicals circulated during the year were 7,812. Story hours were attended by 1,557 children.

At the rate of one cent a day for overdue books, $1,664 was collected in fines. More than 3,000 books were purchased from a book budget totaling $8,500.

Speaker Describes Dual Role as FBI Agent, Communist

Neenah — His experiences while leading a double life for six years as a member of the communist party and an undercover agent for the FBI were described by a Milwaukee man for Women's Tuesday club members.

Michael John Ondrejka was recruited by the FBI in the spring of 1949 while a student at Marquette university. After joining communist party front groups, he became a party member in the fall of the same year.

"I know the everyday goings-on in the party. I lived in the party and married into the party," said Ondrejka. He described his father-in-law as bragging he had brought up his children to be good party members, calling churches insane asylums and referring to servicemen's uniforms as monkey suits.

The basic policy of the communist party is and has been since 1917 to accomplish an overthrow of the capitalist system and a replacement of a socialist government under the authority of the Soviet Socialist Republic, said the speaker.

He illustrated the means of promoting party aims by referring to a panel on the high cost of living for a Milwaukee Mothers' club. He served as the moderator for the panel and on instruction from party leaders related all causes of the high cost of living to non-recognition of Red China by the United Nations and that the United States was a military nation.

While the Korean war was being fought, a communist spokesman told a rally that the war of North Korea was the war of the laboring people of the world. Ondrejka said all the people, including himself, cheered the speaker "while at the very time they were cheering, my brother was one of the soldiers in Korea."

"During the past year the communist party has taken advantage of the racial problem," he said. "It was more or less a rule that unless Negroes were present, there would be trouble at meetings." He explained Negroes were often quickly elevated to responsible party positions just because of their race.

"They don't care what the tactics are as long as they accomplish their purpose."

"It is the sitting back, doing nothing until a crisis arises, that gives the party a stimulant to carry on," warned Ondrejka, who has been a witness for the justice department in Washington, D.C., and Chicago and for the House Un-American Activities committee in Washington and Milwaukee.

During 1949-51, the party was worried because of investigations and the strength of public opinion against communism, said the speaker. He said the large party groups were broken up and divided into three main cells. He pointed out the entire leadership went underground in 1950 and the years 1950-53 "were very rough years on the communist party."

Through the years when someone has been accused of being a communist, people say "show us his card," said the Milwaukee man. "I never carried a card," he said explaining while he was a party member, cards were not used.

post of divorce counsel with that of family court commissioner who would be paid a salary rather than fees. It would be his duty to make greater efforts toward reconciling the parties and to report to the court what attempts have been made.

Also proposed would be a 60-day "cooling off" period before a divorce complaint is served and a further delay thereafter to allow a bonafide attempt by the family court commissioner or some agency assisting him to reconcile the parties.

The term of "divorce from bed and board" would be changed to "legal separation."

Sugar Beet Farmers Told Of Deadline

Must Sign Before
Feb. 13 to Share in Acreage Allotment

Oshkosh — Sugar beet farmers have until Feb. 13 to sign up for beet planting in 1958, Thomas Webster, chief clerk at the agricultural stabilization and conservation office, has announced.

Each state has an acreage allotment and after the February date no assurance on price supports can be made. Those interested in sugar beets as a cash crop in 1958 can contact Webster or Wesley Holle, Shiocton, field man for the beet company.

About 20 years ago, there were 250 sugar beet growers in the county. Last year there were only six growers. Wet harvest seasons and labor problems were the chief factors in decreased beet acreage.

1958 Average
Last year's beet crop averaged 14 tons per acre in the county; grossed about $12 per ton, plus government incentive.

Thursday, January 29, 1959 Appleton Post-Crescent 83

Improving Neenah Five Guns For 4th Straight Victory

Neenah — Neenah's up-climbing Rockets entertain Clintonville and Menasha gets a turn at unbeaten Kimberly on the latter's court in Mid-Eastern conference games involving the local favorites Friday evening.

The Rockets — rapidly becoming the most improved club in the league — bid for their fourth straight triumph, their eighth in 14 starts and a 6-3 conference record.

Should Shawano and Two Rivers become victims of New London and Kaukauna respectively Friday evening, a win could boost the Rockets up into a 3-way deadlock for second.

Improved Scoring
The Rocket upclimb has been characterized by improved scoring and a balanced attack. In their last six games — two of which were good efforts in losses to Janesville and Kimberly — the red and white tallied 373 points to average almost 75 points per game.

In their first eight games, the Rockets only exceeded the 60 point mark twice, getting

Friday's Game:
St. John at St. Mary.

Neenah — Little Chute St. John — the team that gave St. Mary its closest run in Fox Valley Catholic conference play — will be the Zephyrs' foe here Friday night. The game will be played at the Menasha High school gym.

St. Mary goes into the contest with a 6-0 conference mark, an overall 12-3 slate and victories in its last 11 outings. The narrowest spread came in the 62-58 win over the Dutchmen at Little Chute on Jan. 8. All of the other wins were by seven points or more.

St. John has a 2-4 league record to tie Green Bay Pre-montre for fourth and fifth place. Premontre meets Fond du Lac Springs at Green Bay tonight and St. Norbert is at Marnette.

42-Point Effort
Although they haven't looked like a sharply-honed outfit at all times, the Menashans have kept winning. At St. Norbert last Friday they had enough class to win by eight after a miserable first quarter while Tuesday night they sputtered for three quarters before bursting loose for 42 points in the final period against Manawa.

The outbreak was the biggest one-period effort ever turned in by a St. Mary team. Even a few years ago when they hit in the 90s or exceeded the century mark, they didn't approach that figure. The high in the 118-30 win over Columbus, when Ron Diabellus scored 76 points, was 33. Earlier this month, the Menashans made 35 at Wausau Newman.

Average 62.3 Points
The Zephyrs are expected to be without the services of Norm Brown, who had his tonsils removed last Monday. He wasn't around Tuesday and may also miss Sunday's contest against the Salvatorian seminary at St. Nazianz.

Jim Rueckl, who has shown signs of returning to the form he exhibited late last year and earlier this season, started against Manawa in Brown's place. Coach Ralph McClone had a chance to use his entire varsity and several jayvee players against the Wolves.

St. Mary is averaging 62.3 points per game in league play with its 374 markers. It has an excellent defensive average of 48.2. The opponents have scored 289 totals.

St. John has chalked up 345 points for an average of 57.3 per contest while its foes have rolled for 361 or slightly better than 60.

Jean Bethke toppled a 199 game to capture honors in the Wednesday Night Ladies league at Menasha Recreation. There were no honor series but she was just four pins off a 500 set.

Mary's Tap (39-21) holds the No. 1 rung in the standings with a 39-21 record, topping the runnerup by a game.

Macs Turn Back Knight Jayvees
West De Pere — The Menasha Macs defeated the St. Norbert college jayvees 65-61 in a preliminary game here Wednesday night St. Norbert lost to Illinois Tech 66-63 in the feature game.

The Macs and Knights were tied at 32-31 at halftime. Mac scoring honors went to Pat O'Keefe with 19 points. John Chapeau hit 15 and Jerry Smith tallied 10.

In the snow behind the barn The chicken coop door was left open.

Mueller reported that an auto tire and a wheel were taken from a haybaler last fall.

Chickens Taken From Winneconne Farm
Oshkosh — Arthur Mueller, Winneconne, reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday morning that an unknown number of chickens had been stolen from his farm. Officers investigating found tire tracks made 11 to pace Main Office's balanced attack.

Price of Pork Dips, Chickens Still Lead

Decreases Range From 4 to 10 Cents, Many Bargains in Produce Departments

The price of pork has slipped a few pennies during the week, a welcome event in Appleton food stores. Although it still can't exactly be classified as a bargain—a position still held by chicken—it's a better buy than it has been in a long time. The decrease amounts to as much as 10 cents per pound in some stores while in others it means a dip of four or five cents. Right now the food shopper will find chops ranging from 39 to 79 cents, loin roasts from 49 to 59 cents, steaks from 49 to 59 cents and spare ribs from 49 to 59 cents a pound. Still heading the list are chickens with fryers from 40 to 43 cents, stew hens at 30 cents and roasters from 43 to 45 cents a pound. Others High Most other meats continue high. A show of price tags on representative cuts shows sirloin from 85 cents to $1.09, round steak from 79 to 89 cents, rib roast from 79 to 89 cents, rump roast at 90 cents and sirloin tip roast at 90 cents a pound. Moderate are leg of lamb at 79 cents, veal shoulder steak at 69 cents, picnic hams at 39 cents and ham roasts from 59 to 69 cents a pound. Grade A large eggs remain a good buy this week with a dozen tagged from 49 to 53 cents. They're a better buy,

Apple Dishes Can Brighten Winter Meals

Besides adding color to your table as a lovely centerpiece, apples add fragrance and flavor to every meal, combine with leftovers to produce inexpensive interesting dishes, such as our Apple-Ham Bake and Apple-Sweet Casserole. Apples lend their low-calorie goodness to a refreshing salad such as the Waldorf Mandarin, a figure-saving version of the favorite Waldorf. You'll find an abundance of the big Delicious from Washington state in your market now, their fine texture and sweet juiciness the perfect combination for salads or refreshing nibbling. Of firmer meat, more tart and pungent in flavor are the Winesaps, excellent for all cooking purposes, and good keepers, too. Remember to keep apples in a plastic bag or container in your refrigerator to keep them crisp.

Apple-Ham Bake
3 large thin slices of boned pre-cooked ham
2 apples
1 cup cooked rice
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons prepared mustard

1 cup hot water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
On each ham slice place thinly sliced, peeled apples. Blend together cooked rice, salt, prepared mustard, brown sugar and cloves. Spread a third of the mixture over each slice of ham. Roll up each ham slice and fasten with skewers. Place in shallow baking dish.
Pour water and lemon juice mixture over the ham slice and bake in 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes, until apples and ham are tender.

Apple-Sweet Casserole
4 cups apples, peeled and sliced
4 cups sweet potatoes, sliced and cooked
4 tablespoons brown sugar

Potted Steaks Made From Chuck or Round
Have six steaks cut from the round or chuck. Have them cut into individual servings and be sure they're about one inch thick.
Dredge steaks in flour and brown in lard or drippings. Sprinkle over the top. Dribble the molasses over all and dot potatoes, alternating, ending with butter. Cover and bake in 350-degree oven for 40 minutes.

Add a sliced onion, three or four carrots which have been sliced, two cloves, two bay leaves, one cup catsup and one cup hot water. Season with salt and pepper and cover the meat tightly and cook slowly until tender, about one hour.

Songs Played Part in Vaudeville's Demise,

Folk Lore Director Puts Out New Album That's Strictly for Laughs

By HUGH MULLIGAN
AP News Features Writer

It wasn't the joke alone that killed vaudeville. The songs may have had something to do with it.

At least that's the claim of "Songs That Killed Vaudeville," a Riverside album featuring folk singer Oscar Brand and a bunch of back room balladiers called the Eveready Syncopators.

Brand, director of folk lore for New York City's municipally owned radio station WNYC, makes out a pretty strong case of murder against songs like "Don't Go Near the Lion's Cage Tonight," "Mother Was A Lady," "The Fountain in the Park" and similar tear jerkers that he feels had a lot to do with the demise of vaudeville.

Some of the songs go all the way back to 1880 and resurrect forgotten bottom-of-the-bill acts like the Du Reil Twins, who made a specialty of "Fountain in the Park" and somehow managed to remain gainfully employed.

Brand's delivery is strictly for laughs, but might have been good enough to escape the hook in the days when these numbers were popular.

Lovers of nostalgia will get a kick out of the way he roasts these old chestnuts and enemies of prohibition will be frightened to learn that "Father, Dear Father, Come Home With Me Now," was once a serious temperance song before the boys on the opposite side of the swinging doors latched onto it for a dawn lullaby.

"Good Old Days" Also in a reminiscent mood, Kapp Records dips into yesterday with "The Good Old Days," an album of songs that father used to sing. It features Eddie Miller, a barrel house pianist, and a singing group called The Boys on the Corner.

A natural for community singing and party yodling, the album includes such items as "When the Red, Red Robin Comes Bob-bobbing Along," "My Buddy," "Wedding Bells Are Breaking Up that Old Gang of Mine," a bowdlerized version of "Mademoiselle from Armentiers" and "Dardenella."

Greco Ballet Group Delights Bay Audience

By LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Spanish shout of acclaim "Olé!" (spelled ole) is the only proper word to describe an evening of watching Jose Greco and his troupe.

The world's great master of the Spanish dance and his company of 17 artists performed Wednesday night for two hours and 20 minutes at the Bay theater in Green Bay. And the audience ate it up—minute by minute.

This really was something the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

For amateurs only, the movement has spread rapidly across the country in the past few years and boasts hundreds of quartets in almost every state. From their ranks came the "Buffalo Bills," now starring on Broadway in Meredith Willson's hit musical "The Music Man."

The albums feature, respectively, the 1888 winners and medalists in international competition among barbershop quartets and barbershop choruses.

The Dixie Cotton Bolls of Memphis, Tenn., the top chorus, renders a delightful version of "Just a Dream of You Dear," while the top quartet, the Gay Notes of Tulsa, Okla., blend chords melodiously for "Last Night on the Back Porch" and similar old favorites.

special, since for most people a little Spanish dancing usually goes a long way, in spite of its recognized intricate, complicated rhythm patterns.

But this program was different. It proved that el Greco is as much a genius at putting a show together as he is a performer. For one thing, every member of his company is a specialist from folk singers to his three talented guitarists. Although Greco dominated the program, everyone else had a chance at soloing. He put the widely diverse abilities of his troupe to work to create an outstanding repertory of song, dancing and instrumental music.

He also filled the program with charming folk dances, dramatic in their story-telling and pantomimic sequences. Whether accompanied by song or recitation in Spanish or presented in dance form, they were understood. Many of the numbers had humorous touches that brought ready chuckles from the audience.

There were traditional provincial pastorals and wild Gypsy dances. There were the famous Flamenco dances in stylized, disciplined rhythms that made the stage reverberate with the staccato beat of controlled foot movements. The fandango, ferruca and intricate zapateado and other Spanish dance forms were brilliantly performed.

The click-clack of castanets vied with tapping heels and hand claps to swell the tattoo of sound that brought excitement to many of the dances. Two big production numbers with the entire cast taking part were show stoppers. Like a jazz jam session, they gave performers a chance to show off by solo work, couple or group dancing.

Highlighting the more than 20 program numbers were the precise, classic Spanish dances. Besides Greco's own presentation two of his stars gave outstanding performances. Jose Molina danced the "Bolero Clasica" to perfection, combining the purely classic and ballet elements of the Spanish dance. Lola de Rondo's "Cordoba" was more than a classic dance—in her gifted hands the casanets became a musical instrument played with exceptional ability.

From the moment satiny-clad Greco danced the farruca in the opening number, he became the center of attention. But his ability to share the stage with his co-workers helped provoke the thunder-

Falling Farm Numbers Do Not Cut Importance

Dean Froker Emphasizes Agriculture's Prominence in Nation's Production

By RAY PAGER
Post-Crescent News Service
Madison — Farms are declining in numbers, but don't think that agriculture is fading in importance and opportunity.

R. K. Froker, dean of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, stressed that point in a Farm and Home week address here Wednesday.

Agriculture and farming no longer mean the same thing, Dean Froker pointed out. Farming is actually just one phase of the giant agricultural industry which has become vastly complicated and involved.

"The manufacturers of farm machinery, the commercial fertilizer and feed companies, the producers of insecticides and chemical weed controls are essential parts of an ever changing agriculture," he pointed out.

"So are the dairy plants, meat packing companies, flour mills, food stores and all other food processing and distribution firms."

Third of Production
"Farming today is part of a complex network of associated industries which account for more than a third of this nation's annual production effort."

Proving his claim, Dean Froker cited the 1954 agricultural census. Statistics showed American consumers in that year spending $93 billion for farm-originated food and fiber products, amounting to about 40 per cent of their total expenditures.

"The agricultural industries are the largest employers in the nation," Froker noted. "In 1954 they employed 24 million workers. Of these, 6 million were in the farm supply industries, 8 million in farming and 10 million in processing and distribution."

Big business? In terms of labor force, agriculture provides jobs for about two out of every five workers.

Background Important
"Young folks and their advisers should keep this fact in mind when planning careers. The opportunities in these industries are particularly important to farm and rural youth who wish to capitalize on their background and experience."

Farms are becoming fewer and bigger. In 1930, the dean noted, there were some 6,730,000 million farms in this country.

try. By 1956 the number had dropped to 4,988,000.

"The average commercial farm increased its sales from $4,000 in 1940 to $9,000 in 1956 when both were adjusted to 1954 dollar values."

That doesn't mean the farmers are much better off financially.

"Recent studies indicate that in several types of farming, including dairying, farm sales of over $12,000 are necessary to provide incomes of $3,500 for operator and family labor," Froker remarked.

Vertical Integration
Prof. R. G. Bressler of the University of California discussed vertical integration showing how farmers can lose control of their operations by signing up with food processing and marketing organizations.

"But integration need not be a threat; it can be an opportunity," he declared. He suggested that cooperatives can do a big job of not only processing, but distributing the products of their members.

There are good reasons why vertical integration has entered the farm picture. They were pointed out at an afternoon sectional meeting by S. D. Staniforth, associate professor of agricultural economics at the University of Wisconsin.

"Processors enter vertical integration in agriculture primarily to control the quality, quantity and timing of production to fit the needs of their plant and market," Staniforth said.

Increase Trade
"The supplier, which in this case is the farmer, integrates to increase his volume of trade. Essentially, they are interested in controlling production so they can make more money performing the same function as they did before."

Staniforth did not think integration would make any headway in dairying unless there is a trend toward the central milking barn. If there is such a trend, he said, the farmers will have a wonderful opportunity through their cooperative organizations.

"Whenever contracting or any form of vertical integration is considered, it must be analyzed in terms of the role it plays in the individual farm. Various forms of it can create an economic opportunity that could scarcely be achieved in any other way on some individual farms," Staniforth concluded.

Appleton Heart Fund Campaign chairmen met Wednesday at the Elks club to hear Dr. William Rasche, Milwaukee, state chairman of the organization. Standing, left to right, are Mrs. H. J. Weller, telephone chairman, Charles Barr and Allan Mink, Appleton chairman. Seated in the same order are Dr. Rasche and Mrs. Peter Sinner, Heart Sunday chairman. Heart Sunday is scheduled for Feb. 22.

Nelson has asked Director plan for the ultimate acquisition by the state for public park purposes of a strip of the Menominee forest along the Wolf river, and possibly other scenic spots.

Mixed Blessings In System of Super Highways

Madison — Wisconsin's interstate highway system assures that farmers, labor and industry will benefit from an ever-improving transportation network, a state highway commission official told a Farm and Home week audience today.

O. J. Hughes, acting director for the right-of-way division, said the state's 1959 road building program will bring rich economic benefits to Wisconsin but also will spawn many problems in the process.

Acquisition of the right-of-way for the ultra-modern highway does not always bring benefits to adjoining property, the official noted, and may create hostility. In another prepared talk, University of Wisconsin agronomist H. L. Sands said the state exceeded all previous spring grain acre yields in 1958.

Winter wheat yields also established an all-time high acre yield, and for the second straight year the Wisconsin oat crop set a record production.

Colonial First Names Used On Original Pearson Recipes

BY HAYDON S. PEARSON

Many have written asking how and why I use these names on recipes. I use old-fashioned colonial first names, either men's or women's, and also the Sunny Acres label to designate recipes that I have originated. If Blanche originates a recipe, I name it after her and use her name.

I am fond of cranberries and that Cranberry Upside Down Cake in Country Flavor Cookbook is one of the most popular cakes in the book. But I had a hankering for a plain cranberry cake, so after considerable experimentation, this has been evolved. In originating a recipe, I try anywhere from half a dozen to a dozen times, before I decide on a particular formula. Each of the attempts may be eatable, but if I have something in mind, I keep trying and suffer in martyr-like silence the comments of the neighbor girls.

Gertrude's Cranberry Cake
You need one half cup butter, one and a fourth cups sugar, one egg beaten, three fourths cup whole milk, one tablespoon cream, three fourths teaspoon vanilla, two cups flour, two and a half teaspoons baking powder, one

English Style Marmalade Has Tart Taste

A reader asks how she can make her marmalade as tart as the English marmalade. As it happens, for the latter the Seville oranges from Spain are used, and they are relatively tart and have a thin peel that makes them appropriate for marmalade. The combination of domestic oranges with lemons will provide a comparatively tart marmalade. If the fruit has a thick skin, you may like to scrape out some of the white lining after the rind has been cooked.

There are a number of recipes for citrus marmalade. One of the favorites is the combination of grapefruit, orange and lemon, that will naturally be tart. It calls for cooking and draining the rind several times before it is cut into fine strips. This recipe takes longer to prepare than some of the others, but those who have used it for many years consider that the time is very well spent.

Remember that marmalades must be watched carefully during the cooking and stirred frequently. This is important, for if the mixture will scorch, the flavor will be ruined.

Orange Marmalade
4 medium oranges
4 medium lemons
1/2 teaspoon salt
Sugar
Wash and peel fruit and cut rind into thin strips with scissors. Cover rind with large amount of cold water and boil until tender. Drain. Slice fruit very thin, removing seeds.

Measure drained rind and fruit into large kettle, add twice the amount of water and the salt. Bring to boiling and cook 25 minutes.

Measure this mixture and add an equal amount of sugar. Bring to boiling, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Boil 15 to 25 minutes, or until jelly test is reached. Allow marmalade to cool slightly, stir and pour into hot sterilized jars or glasses. Seal immediately. Yield: about five pints.

Citrus Marmalade
1 large grapefruit
1 large orange
1 large lemon
Water
Sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
Wash and peel fruit and cut rind into thin strips with scissors. Cover rind with one quart water and boil five minutes. Repeat this process three times and drain rind.

Cut fruit into thin slices, remove seeds and grapefruit core. Add pulp to drained peel and measure. Add twice the quantity of water and boil rapidly 40 minutes. Measure this mixture and add an equal amount of sugar and the salt. Stir over high heat until sugar is dissolved and cook about 25 minutes, until marmalade is thick and clear, stirring frequently to prevent burning.

Allow mixture to cool slightly, stir, and pour into hot sterilized jars or glasses. Seal immediately. Yield three pints.

Mix in the chopped cranberries. Pour batter in greased eight by eight pan. Sprinkle the batter with the tablespoon of sugar and nutmeg.

Bake at 350 for about 45 minutes — or until done. If you like a crispy crust on this type cake, put heat at 400 for last five minutes.

Veal Riblets With Gravy Good Dish

The recipe is called Veal Riblets with Gravy and it can't help but attract those interested in fine food.

Simply mix together one-third cup flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one tea-half teaspoons dry mustard. Dredge three pounds veal riblets in seasoned flour and brown in lard or drippings. Four off drippings. Add two medium onions which have been sliced and two cups water.

Cover the meat tightly and simmer two hours. Remove riblets and thicken liquid for gravy.

Friday Night's Schedule:
Appleton at Central North at Manitowish
Fond du Lac at West
East at Oshkosh

Who has more fun than Fox River Valley conference fans trying to guess the outcomes of their weekly basketball skirmishes?

Never in recent FRVC history has the competition been spiced so liberally with that crowd-pleasing, anything-can-happen flavor. Take Friday night's set of games, for example.

3-Game Margin
First-place Manitowish takes on Sheboygan North, which is only one lap behind; Appleton (3-4) travels to Sheboygan Central, seeking to pull even in the standings with the Redmen; Fond du Lac and Green Bay West match identical 4-3 records at Green Bay; and East and Oshkosh bring identical 2-5 marks into their clash on the Indians' court.

This lineup is far from a prognosticator's dream. All of the games could go either way.

Close competition typified the first half of the race, which ended with only a 3-game margin between first and last place. Compare this with other area conferences at a roughly comparable point in their races. The Central Wisconsin has nine games separating first from last; the Mid-Eastern and Little Nine both have eight games from top to bottom; and Northeast Wisconsin margin is seven games; while the Eastern Wisconsin spread stands at four.

Central Hits Stride
What makes the FRVC race even harder to project is that the current cellar dwellers—Oshkosh and East—could well be among the top winners in the second half of the race. Oshkosh's knuckle-rapped suspensions have returned to the squad, and if they regain their pre-Christmas touch should make the Indians tough to beat the rest of the way. And, East, of course, has won its

Top Four Clubs In Big 16 Hold Their Positions

Milwaukee North, Kimberly Still Ranked 1-2

The top four clubs in the WIAA's Big Sixteen basketball ratings remained the same again this week with unbeaten Kimberly holding down the No. 2 position.

Top-ranked Milwaukee (11-0) and the Papermakers both added a pair of wins to their records in action through Tuesday night. Unbeaten Superior Central made the only change in the top 11 positions among the larger schools, moving into fifth place, from seventh last week. Monroe and LaCrosse Logan dropped down a notch from last week.

Waupaca dropped a position from thirteenth to fourteenth although the Cornets captured their twelfth straight game since the last pool.

Shawano of the Mid-Eastern conference split two games to drop from sixteenth into the special mention category. Among the other Big Sixteen special mention clubs are: Hortonville (11-1) Manitowish (8-3), New Holstein (8-2), and Two Rivers (9-3).

Trempealeau ran its record to 14-0 and remain at the head of the Little Sixteen.

NOTES and NOTIONS

The past of Clark Van Galder, newly-named assistant grid coach at the UW, contains a number of ties with present Fox Cities residents. Gene Davis, now a Lawrence college coach, played right half in Van Galder's winged-T attack during the 1949-50 seasons at Wisconsin State college, La Crosse.

The 1950 team was unbeaten and whipped Valparaiso in the Cigar bowl game of Jan. 1, 1951. Prior to his La Crosse stint, Van Galder coached at Racine Washington Park High school at the time George Walter—now of the Lawrence college staff—was principal there. During that period—in the late 30s and early 40s—Van Galder was a part-time assistant of E. W. "Duke" Grover—then Racine's recreation director. Both Davis and Grover (now Appleton's recreation director) are sold on Van Galder, his enthusiasm and his know-how. Another of Van Galder's achievements of note was coaching his Racine basketball team to the 1943 state prep title (beating Shawano, 40-23, in the finals).

In return for getting the exclusive story on why Terry Brennan was fired, Sports Illustrated evidently agreed to provide the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, Notre Dame president, with all the tear sheets of the article he could use. One of the many protest letters to the president on the firing was penned by Dave Apker, of the P-C news staff (on his own behalf as a grid fan). Apker has just received his reply in the form of a copy of the now-famed "commitment to excellence" article the magazine carried. I guess it beats mimeographing a new batch of explanations on school stationery.

Charlie Brock's recent Fond du Lac blast against the Packer executive committee was strictly his own opinion and did not—as they say—necessarily reflect the views of the Packer Alumni association which he heads. The association, through Brock and Secretary John Biolo, now says it "has made no formal decision either for or against the present operation of the Green Bay Packer corporation and at this time has no plans on making any statement." It's probably true that any barbed opposition the alumni may have had in mind should have been aggressively advanced at season's end and before the reorganization announcement.

The Class B Three-I league (which will retain its storied name despite President Hal Totten's recent effort to change it) is the oldest minor league in the country below the Double A classification. The only minor circuits with a longer history than the 52-year-old 3-I are the International, 76 years; the Texas, 68; the American association, 58; and the Southern association and Pacific Coast, 57 each.

Appleton is planning to enter the Little league baseball fold at a time when the movement seems to be experiencing some needed "de-emphasis." We're not talking about the amount of participation—which is growing steadily—but about the undue stress sometimes put on winning. The excitement of all-out competition—engendered by tournaments and such—can prove detrimental to young boys' (9-13) physical and emotional development. Pete McGovern, the national president of LL, is quoted in a current magazine as saying, "We seem to be coming down to what Little league really should represent, not just a boys' baseball setup but an adult-child program." So the more parents who show an active interest, the better. The local group is showing good judgment in planning a "minor" league for the youngest of the eligibles. Thus, competition—and some of it is very desirable—will be on equitable levels.

Name Lombardi 5th Head Coach in Packers' History

Will Get 5-Year Contract In Dual Role of Field Boss And New General Manager

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Brooklyn-born Vince Lombardi held the "sports wonder of the world" in the palm of his hand today.

He is the new general manager and head coach of the Packers. He was given a "completely free hand" by Green Bay Packers, Inc., at a momentous meeting Wednesday afternoon.

Lombardi, 45, will come from the pictures. It will help me know what we can do on offense and defense. I plan to use the T-formation with some flanking variations.

"Enough Background"

Lombardi said he had "enough football background generally and in particular with the Giants to handle the general manager position. Of course, I'll have someone to take care of the details."

Lombardi said "I'm extremely happy to get this opportunity in Green Bay but

Paul Brown, Halas Laud Bay Decision

Cleveland Coach Believes Lombardi Will Do Good Job

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Paul Brown, a longtime opponent, feels the Packers "made a very wise decision" in naming Vince Lombardi as general manager and head coach.

National Football league pioneer George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, is in complete agreement. "I think that it was an excellent choice," he declared.

Brown, contacted by telephone, said, "I think the Packer committee has made a very wise decision. They have taken a man who is right currently in the swim from a successful operation and should give him a running go at it."

The Hard Way
Paul, who has formed his opinion of the new Packer head man the hard way in annual and not always successful combat with the New York Giants, added, "I think he's a good one. We've competed against him for some period of years. He's tough to lick but a sport."

"I think he's been a vital cog in the Giants' success," Brown continued. "My feeling would be that he would do a good job. It's also an opportunity which I would say he has earned."

"I certainly wish this fellow well," Brown concluded. "He's a good one."

From Chicago, Halas characterized Lombardi as "sharp, smart, alert and a fine football man. What's more, he's an excellent student of football. He applies himself to the game and the game alone."

"It's a feather in the hat of Green Bay to get a man who was being considered for the West Point job," Halas pointed out. Lombardi, assistant to Col. Earl Blaik before joining the Giants in 1964, had been prominently mentioned for the Army post following Blaik's recent resignation.

Foxes' Directors Lay Plans for '59 Season

Vote to Hold Banquet, Sell Booster Buttons

The directors of the Fox Cities Foxes Wednesday night laid preliminary plans for the 1959 baseball season but failed to reach a decision on the distance Goodland field fences should be moved.

The directors:

- (1) Voted to sell opening-day booster buttons again;
- (2) sponsor another pre-season banquet, around April 20;
- (3) elected V. I. Minahan, Jr., Post-Crescent editor, to fill the unexpired director's term of the late John R. Riedl;
- (4) to continue the sale of stock subscriptions at $5 a share (information can be secured by calling the Foxes' office, 3-4152).

President Ray McClone set up committees — most of the assignments being the same as last year—and urged each board member to begin working on the assignments immediately to help insure success of the 1959 operation.

Joseph Schouten and Bob Kamps were authorized to investigate the transportation problem for '59 and to recommend the kind of vehicles to purchase.

Rather than making a board decision on the Goodland field fence, the directors authorized its liaison committee to city agencies to act. The committee comprises Dave Smith, Judge Andrew Parnell, S. M. Timmers and McClone. Appleton recreation commissioners have recommended that the light poles and fence be moved back 25 feet down the

Rupp Seeks 600th Victory Tonight

Rated Seattle, St. Bonaventure, Bradley Fatten Their Records

BY DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Adolph Rupp, who gets what he goes after 85 per cent of the time, tries for victory No. 600 at Kentucky tonight and another milestone in his brilliant 29-year career as a college basketball coach.

The 57-year-old Baron has coached 703 games, all as head man of the Wildcats. His 508-104 record figures out to a winning percentage of .835—by far the best of any coach over a period of years at a major school.

Georgia's Bulldogs form the opposition in the game at Lexington that can advance Rupp to a 600 club inhabited by only three other coaches—Ed Diddle of Western Kentucky, Hank Iba of Oklahoma State and Eddie Adams of State Southern.

The Baron comes up to the milestone at an absolute peak with a team that ranks No. 1 in the nation with a 15-1 record and looks capable of defending the unprecedented fourth national collegiate title Rupp and the 'Cats bagged last season.

Rated teams Bradley, No. 9, Seattle, No. 13, and St. Bonaventure, No. 16, fattened their records in features of Wednesday's program.

Bradley, holding on for another crack at Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley conference race, made it 13-2 with a 68-55 whipping of Toledo. Seattle, (13-2 against collegiate competition), split a San Francisco, 80-82, St. Bonaventure, which lost its 9-game unbeaten string last Saturday, stared a new one with eleventh straight loss.

Pep Says He'll Quit Boxing

Willie Makes Decision After Loss to Leon

Hartford, Conn. —(U)—Little Willie Pep, of the spidery legs and two featherweight titles, has decided to quit boxing. "I decided it would be foolish to continue," he said.

Pep, 30, has been down before, but not out. He lost his featherweight title in 1950 when Sandy Saddler defeated him in their second title match.

Sports writers have predicted Pep's retirement ever since, but the scrappy former shoeshine boy from Hartford refused to quit.

Monday night, Pep was beaten by Sonny Leon in a fight at Caracas, Venezuela. Wednesday night Pep stopped by to see Hartford Courant Sports Editor Bill Lee, who has followed his career ever since it started.

"I did a lot of thinking," after the Caracas fight, Pep told Lee. "and decided it would be foolish to continue."

Bobcats Blast Overmatched Mosinee, 18-2

Warm Up for Fort Frances Weekend Series

BY LEE REMNELL
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The Bobcats, methodical marauders after a slow start, ended Green Bay's 12-year victory drought against Mosinee in the grand manner Wednesday night.

They established a new team and arena scoring record with an 18-2 route of the Wisconsin Amateur Hockey league's undefeated leaders, out of their depth in combat with this community's Mid-America league standard bearers before 2,023 onlookers.

In effect, it served the Bobcats as a warmup for their imminent series with the Fort Frances, Ontario, Canadians, their guests Friday and Saturday nights. The victory, which ended a 2-game losing streak, pegged the home forces' overall record at 12-10, 5 in 1st Period.

Though it took the Bobcats nearly seven minutes to untrack, it became apparent early that the visiting Papermakers were overmatched. The 'Cats bulged the Mosinee net with five goals in the first period and ran up a prohibitive 9-0 lead before permitting the first Paper goal at 14:24 of the second period.

With Coach Tony Bukovich alternating lines freely, a total of 13 Bobcats, two of them imports from the Hornets, figured in the scoring. Three of them, Dick Dougherty, Dick Dier and Ron Katalin, engineered hat tricks.

Dougherty emerged with scoring honors, his production including a pair of assists.

Jones Wins Split Verdict Over Giardello

Averages 2 Previous Losses in Louisville 10-Round Battle

Louisville, Ky. —(U)—Ralph "Tiger" Jones, the nation's tenth-ranked middleweight, avenged two previous losses with a split decision over Joey Giardello in a 10-round fight Wednesday night.

Giardello, ranked No. 4, outweighed Jones 162½ to 156½ in the nationally televised (ABC) bout before a crowd of 5,000.

Jones lost to Giardello in 1954 and 1957.

Jones battered a cut over Giardello's eye in the fourth round and pounded away at it the rest of the way.

Giardello couldn't keep away from his agile opponent and got a cut over the other eye late in the match.

Jones went into the bout with a 46-24-4 record.

35th Appearance

It was his thirty-fifth appearance on television, a record no other fighter has matched.

Giardello's prefight record was 67-15-5.

Referee Paul Matchun's card gave the fight to Giardello 48-43.

Jones had it 48-45 from Judge Tom Nuckles. Judge Walter Beck gave it to Jones 48-47 and The Associated Press scored it 46-45 for Jones.

Jones forced Giardello against the ropes time after time and jolted his heavier opponent constantly with solid rights and lefts, many of them body punches.

Conley Stars in Cage Win

Boston Fans Hurl Retaliatory Shower of Eggs at Hawk '5'

Boston —(U)—The St. Louis Hawks were greeted by a shower of eggs Wednesday night as they took the floor for their National Basketball association game with the Boston Celtics.

The demonstration, apparently caused by reports that fans pelted Boston Coach "Red" Auerbach with beer, towels and cups in St. Louis last week, brought a public apology from Celtics owner Walter Brown.

The Celtics, cheered on by a crowd of 9,420, went on to defeat the defending NBA champions, 120-111, in overtime.

Tom Gola, Guy Rodgers and Woody Sauldsberry carried the Philadelphia Warriors to a 99-84 victory over the Cincinnati Royals and Jim Krebs scored three points in the last 30 seconds to give Minneapolis a 112-109 triumph over Syracuse in other NBA action.

Gene Conley scored six of his 10 points in the overtime session to lead the Boston attack. Bob Pettit scored 40 points for St. Louis. Frank Ramsey's 30 points paced the

Unrest Among Yanks

'Yogi' Berra Signs for Apparent Salary Cut

New York —(U)—Now that "Yogi" Berra has given in, apparently accepting his second salary cut in two seasons, will the rest of the New York Yankees fall in line?

There's supposed to be all sorts of unrest among the world champs, who figure such champs shouldn't be expected to accept a decrease in salary.

Mickey Mantle, Gil McDougal, and "Whitey" Ford, to name the big guys, are a bit miffed. So's 21-game winner Bob Turley, although the pitching hero of the World Series has been offered a raise. Trouble is, it isn't exactly the hike Turley had in mind.

Knocking on Door

Berra was among the quasi-holdouts until Wednesday. Then, within 24 hours after Manager Casey Stengel sided with the front office and chewed his players a bit for lack of hustle and excessive night life, "Yogi" was back knocking on Roy Hamer's door.

Berra had been to see the assistant general manager last week but walked out and returned to his Tenafly, N. J. home unsigned.

A 45-minute conference ended Wednesday with Berra agreeing to a contract believed to be for $42,500, a $2,500 cut from last year's salary, which in turn was about $5,000 below the $50,000 or so he picked up in 1957.

Berra wouldn't venture an answer one way or the other about whether he had been cut.

"I'm satisfied," he said. "Let it go at that."

Hamer termed it "a compromise" between what "Yogi" wanted and what the Yankees had offered.

"Yogi," 33, and veteran outfielder Hank Bauer are the only Yankees whose signing have been announced. Bauer signed last week, for somewhere around $25,000. That represented one of the token raises the Yankees hope to get away with.

"Yogi," who took over the catching chores in 1948, asked Hamer about reports that Stengel intends to play him at first base this season, a position Berra toyed with a bit last year. Hamer replied "that's up to Casey."

"Yogi" didn't have one of his better seasons last year, not when you remember he's a 3-time winner of the American league's Most Valuable Player award. Still he hit 22 homers—he holds the major league lifetime record for a catcher with 284—and drove in 90 runs while playing in 122 games.

Patterson and Johansson Due To Sign Pact

Champ Expected To be Guaranteed At Least $300,000

New York—Floyd Patterson, the almost forgotten heavyweight champion, and Ingemar Johansson, pride of Sweden, sign for a title fight today.

There's many a slip twixt the lip and the cup, especially where Cus d'Amato, Patterson's manager, is concerned. But the best inside information, including indirect quotes from D'Amato himself, indicated that Patterson would come out of hiding around noon today and join with Johansson in the contract-signing ceremonies.

Lawyers Huddle

Lawyers have been huddling ever since the curly-haired, handsome fistic idol of Sweden arrived last Friday. Best guess is that Patterson (winning three of its last four), represents a major problem for the Terrors, who have dropped two in a row. The Redmen will rate as slight favorites even though AHS drubbed them by 14 points (65-51) last month and despite the fact that the Terrors haven't lost on the Sbeboygan armory floor since the 1955-6 season.

The immediate Terror objectives will be to regain the .500 mark for both conference play and the season. And, a win is essential, of course, for any long-range title ambitions the AHS may still be harboring.

Edge Over Huebner

The Terrors, who have bogged down twice in a row after engineering four straight scintillating upsets, hope to use their recent "S h e b o y g a n touch" to get back on the victory track. Besides beating Central in December, the Terrors softened up North earlier this month. After suffering their first setback at AHS, son will be guaranteed $300,000 as against 40 per cent of the net receipts while Johansson will get $100,000 or 20 per cent.

The date and site of the fight are not expected to be announced. Bill Rosenbush who promoted the Patterson-Roy Harris title fight in Los Angeles last August, said he plans to tour the fight arenas before deciding on the site. New York and Los Angeles have been most prominently mentioned with Colorado Springs and Indianapolis still in running. The most likely date figures to be late in May or early in June.

Lombardi Is 5th Head Coach In Bay History

I'm unhappy about leaving the Giants and their entire organization. The Maras are wonderful people and I'll miss them all."

Lombardi has put in 20 years of coaching but his only head coaching assignments have been in high school. He never played pro football.

"At 180 pounds and a guard, I was a little light," Lombardi laughed.

Lombardi broke into coaching as a means of working himself through law school at his alma mater, Fordham, taking a position as head football coach at St. Cecilia High in Englewood, N. J. in 1939. Success with the T-formation there gave him national recognition—not to mention six state titles and a string of 36 straight wins, and spelled the end of his law plans.

He installed the T for the freshmen at Fordham under Ed Danowski in 1947 and the following year coached the varsity offense.

Lombardi started a 5-year career at Army in 1949, working on Army's T-attack. "I never met Coach Blaik before he hired me," Vince recalled, adding: "I had an enjoyable time at the Point and I loved every minute of it." Army had an unbeatable season in Lombardi's first year.

Lombardi went to Giants in 1954—the year Jim Lee Howell took over as head coach from Steve Owen. Howell commented "Vince is on the style I like—daring." Lombardi was Jim Lee's No. 1 aide and the new Packer's basic formation is the T with split-T line spacing. In passing situations, he can throw a sideline-to-sideline spread to unleash five receivers.

Executive Officer

Bob Daley, former Giant publicist, wrote this in part about Lombardi in the Giants' press book:

"Howell may be considered as commanding officer, with Lombardi as executive officer both on the practice field and on the bench during games.

"Basically, it is Lombardi who designs those intricate plays which result in long runs on Sunday afternoons. He not only plots and diagrams the movements of the offense, he teaches it in blackboard sessions and on the practice field, occasionally sharpening a particular play right up to game time."

Lombardi was born in Brooklyn June 11, 1913, and played fullback at St. Francis prep. He was a regular guard in Fordham's line known as the "Seven Blocks of Granite," winning three football letters. He was graduated from Fordham in 1937 and then continued school toward his law degree until the football coaching success bug bit while at St. Cecilia.

Vince is married and the father of two children—Vince, Jr., 16, a 190-pound fullback who is now in his junior year in high school; and Susan, 11. Wife Marie is also from the New York area.

The Lombardis live in Fair Haven, N. J.

foul lines and 43 feet in center.

The Foxes will send a representative to Des Moines Sunday for a special 3-1 league session called this morning by President Hal Totten. The meeting agenda will include such items of business as drafting the schedule and setting up a special mileage pool. On the latter, the three Westernmost clubs, Topeka, Lincoln and Sioux City, will compensate the Fox Cities and Green Bay for added travel expenses made necessary by league expansion.

The league will also consider such promotions as a "queen contest," "motto contest" and opening day attendance award.

North's Raiders stumbled twice more, falling out of first place

AHS Coach Dick Emanuel has a 7 to 4 victory edge in his rivalry with Central veteran "Cully" Huebner. The Terrors have won four of their last five games against the Redmen — the only defeat being a 54-52 decision early last season.

Last season, at the armory, AHS pulled out a 64-62 win with a hoisterous last-ditch rally.

Speed and Hustle

The 1958 - 9 Terrors, who have fewer consistent shot-makers than most other AHS editions of recent years, have had to compensate with such commodities as speed, aggressiveness and defensive strategies. The combination has worked out pretty well, since in only two (Kimberly and Manitowoc) of the Terrors' six losses to date have they been "out of the ball game." Their other losses included a pair of double overtimes, a 7-point loss to West and an 8-point loss to East.

Central has victimized East, Oshkosh and West during its comeback surge, losing only to Manty (65-58) in the 4-game span. The Redmen have been rebounding well despite lacking exceptional height and have played a driving brand of ball of late.

Junior Tom Posewitz, averaging 12.2 points per FRVC game, tops Central's balanced scoring and ranks tenth in the conference. Dan Davies, whose 14 was high in Central's latest win, is eleventh in the circuit.

AHS Better Defensively

Appleton's top conference scorers are John Nussbaum (No. 5) and Harold Lodholz (No. 14) with averages of 17.6 and 10.7, respectively.

Central has done better than the Terrors offensively (averaging 60.8 in the conference to 57.1), but AHS has a more impressive defensive record (57.8 to 64.2).

The Terrors scrimmaged Wednesday against a crew of former AHS players who are taking between - semester breaks from the colleges or universities they attend. Included were Howie Hamann, Tom Verkuilen, Jack Ulwelling, John Cotton, Jack Rademacher and Jim Yeakey. Terrors Bob Roemer and Bob Ferrel missed the vigorous workout because of ROTC examinations. Harold Lodholz was another absent regular.

U. S. Seems Happy Despite Inflation

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Milton Berle was having a lot of fun with President Eisenhower's $77 billion budget on his TV show a week ago.

Wednesday and, at home, we were grinning along with him. Suddenly, during his monologue came this:

"Inflation! That means your money today won't buy as much as it would have during the depression when you didn't have any."

My family howled — and I ran for pencil and paper to write it down. For as he so often has done during his long career, with one remark, the master comedian put into brilliant focus a basic aspect of our country and of us, its millions of citizens.

Unions Unmoved

Why hasn't there been a great outcry against rising prices over the years since World War II, swelling public support for measures that really would stop the wage-price spiral? Why don't the many millions of average Americans feel as strongly as, say, former President Herbert Hoover that inflation is the most monstrous economic evil there is? Why has grumbling about price rises not been translated into a crusade for price stability or at least, buyers' resistance?

Why is it that most union members are utterly unmoved when the experts try to explain that a $10 pay rise does not mean anything if the cost of living goes up $10 at the same time?

The answer to the "why" lies behind Berle's wisecrack — and whoever created it ought to be called to Washington to help the president write his next speech about inflation. For listen to what I heard as I checked the response to the remark:

Whatever She Wants

From the head of one of Wall Street's giant financial houses—a millionaire, a capitalist in every sense and a man thoroughly aware of every fluctuation in the dollar's value and of what the fluctuation means:

"Oh, that's a beauty, I wish I'd heard him say it. Yes, in the '30s, I could have bought four suits for what one costs today, and I could have had a mansion in the suburbs for the asking. But I didn't buy the four suits and I didn't take over the mansion because I didn't have the extra money then and, just as important, I didn't have the courage to splurge. I won't say it in public, but I'll say it to you if you don't identify me. While I think what has been happening to the dollar is terrible, I personally am better off than I ever dreamed I'd be, and so is my family. I wouldn't turn the clock back for anything."

From a middle-aged housewife who lives with her husband, a junior executive in a New York commercial firm.

Co-op Asks Change in Milk Order

Feed du Lac—An individual handler pool arrangement is one of the changes proposed Wednesday for the Northeastern Wisconsin milk marketing order.

William C. Eckles, general manager of the Pure Milk Products cooperative, submitted a request to Herbert L. Forrest, chief of the U.S. agriculture department's dairy branch, for an immediate hearing on amendments suggested by the co-op.

At present the federal order, affecting 22 counties, provides for a marketwide pool.

Eckles said an individual handler arrangement would be in line with the type of order originally requested by the co-op when hearings were held in the fall of 1957, he said.

"After 60 days of operation of the order and further consultations with dealers," Eckles reported "we find that these dealers, or most of them, now favor the individual handler pool."

Such an arrangement, he said, also would "distribute pool proceeds to the particular district or regional marketing areas."

Government Officials Debate Eisenhower's Role in Farm Policy

Some Say Congress Should be Responsible for '59 Program

BY OVID A. MARTIN

Washington — The question is being debated in administration circles on how far President Eisenhower should go in recommending specific proposals for revising federal farm-aid programs.

The chief executive said in his state of the union message he intended to send a special message to Congress soon on the farm problem. He said farm programs are costing too much considering the continued buildup of crop surpluses.

Farm leaders who have consulted with top administration officials said there is a possibility that Eisenhower will outline the farm problem as he sees it and suggest a general legislative direction.

Poor Strategy

It is being argued by some advisers that it would be poor strategy to make specific recommendations to a Congress known to be highly critical of past administration policies and particularly of Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

These advisers contend that it would be better strategy to put on congress the responsibility for developing programs.

Administration measures presented now, they argue, would become targets for the Democratic-controlled Congress. With such targets, legislators would be under less pressure to come up with specific proposals of their own.

The President is expected to stand firm on the administration's past policy that the government should withdraw from controlling the pricing, production and marketing of farm products.

Soviets May Boast of Advances, but Follow U. S. Farm Research

Team of Scientists Reports America Ahead in Agriculture

BY OVID A. MARTIN

Washington—(AP)—Russians may boast of scientific superiority in many fields, but not in agricultural research.

Everywhere in the Soviet Union, American farm research is held up as a pattern.

This was a key point in a report six teams of American scientists made today of their tour of Russian farm regions last summer and fall. Under an exchange agreement, Russian farm experts also toured farming areas of this country.

"Agriculture is now advancing rapidly in Russia—a fact that can be attributed largely to the nation's progressive agricultural research," said a report made public by the agriculture department.

Taking Steps

The report said the Russians recognize their potentiality in agriculture and are taking energetic steps to increase production. To accomplish this, the Soviets were said to be leaning heavily on this country's scientific findings in this field.

While in Russia, the American teams looked about for possible new crops for this country. They reported no success.

"No familiar crop material that offered economic potential for the United States was noticed anywhere," the report said.

It made these other points about Russian agriculture:

The Soviets lag in plant-pest control work.

The American teams were impressed with what the report called top-notch farm machinery. But many steps in mechanized agriculture were not being well integrated.

No Surplus

The Russians have no farm surplus problems.

Although the Russians are behind the United States in meat and milk production, they are closing the gap through effective research.

They hope to surpass this country within five years.

Plant breeding suffers through lack of greenhouses. Many laboratories were said to be poorly equipped.

Little broiler research was found and chickens are eaten only when they stop laying.

The Soviets have about the same animal disease problems as this country, except for a fairly widespread existence of the destructive foot-and-mouth disease among cattle.

Corn production is receiving special attention and Russian scientists have developed their own inbred lines partly from American parent stocks.

American cotton experts felt that Russian plans to increase cotton output 50 per cent in seven years is too optimistic. But research already has made Russia the world's second largest cotton producer.

Cotton and tobacco are being studied by Russian scientists as sources of citric acid, and wild plants as sources of medicines, resins and industrial oils.

Winning Ways

Lawrence Kauer Family Works Farm Together

BY EDWARD VAN BERKEI
 Post-Press Staff Writer

Kaukauna — Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kauer, route 3, Kaukauna, are true believers in a family farm policy as they and their five children work together to run the 265-acre farm in Calumet county.

The children all have been active in 4-H club work and learned good farming practices from their father at an early age. The father, a seed dealer, has been working with the University of Wisconsin on seed crops about 15 years

The County Agent Says

Question: Why is fall freshening of cows in the dairy herd best?

Answer: Cows that give birth to calves and come in to milk production during the fall mean more profit. Fall is the time that the farmers' production base is set. This production base will determine the farmers' milk income for the next year. High production during the fall means a more favorable base. According to DHIA records, cows that graze in the fall apparently produce better.

Question: What is the dairy outlook for 1959?

Answer: Dairy farm income will stay about the same as 1958. The gross farm income from dairy will increase but farm costs will also increase and the average net income will remain about the same.

Question: What practices are available for federal cost sharing?

Answers: Practices in soil conservation include: sod waterways, constructing terraces, strip cropping, surface ditching, erosion control structures, land smoothing, and tilling. Forestry practices included are tree planting and timber stand improvement. Your ACP practices are establishing or re-establishing permanent hay or pasture, seeding a winter cover for erosion control, and liming of legumes.

and is active in organizations promoting better farming methods.

The advisability of such a plan can be easily seen when one studies a few of the achievements of the family over the years. Kauer won the Pacemaker awards for corn crops in 1957 and 1958, finishing in second place in the state in 1957 with an average yield of 132.6 bushels per acre. In 1958, a dry year, he averaged 117.8 per acre. Both years he has led production in the county.

Kauer using a corn with a 95-day maturity favors the Wisconsin 423 variety which has been on the market a little over two years. In 1958 he won two first place awards at the state fair in grain category and in 1957 he won two first place awards for two varieties of seed oats in the International Livestock exhibition. Since 1949 he has never finished lower than third with anything entered in state fair competition.

He is a member of the Wisconsin Seed Improvement association, the Wisconsin Seed Dealers association, the Calumet County Soil Conservation district and a leader of the Darby Ever Alert 4-H club.

His winning ways have been passed on to the children. Lawrence, Jr., won the 1958 Northeast Wisconsin livestock award for a black Angus while his twin, Lois, won fifth in the Northeast livestock show and also has won ribbons at the Calumet county fair.

Another daughter, Carol, won an award for 4-H work in a family garden several years ago. Projects for next year for the children include three black Angus for the three youngest, Beverly, Lawrence, Jr., and Lois while Beverly also is going into the sheep-raising project.

Lawrence, Jr., also has adopted pure-bred hogs for a 1959 4-H project and Lois will be getting a pure-bred palomino pony for another 4-H project. The older daughters, Carol and Eileen, were both active in 4-H work.

Farm-Home Week Starts

Thousands of Rural Residents Head for Madison This Week

Madison — A series of meetings on the many phases of farming opened the annual Farm and Home Week at the University of Wisconsin Monday.

The event is expected to attract thousands of rural residents.

One of the opening highlights was luncheon for poultrymen to mark the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the poultry husbandry department at the College of Agriculture.

A guest of honor was James Halpin, now professor emeritus, who established the poultry unit a half century ago. Halpin is 78 and now works part time for a feed manufacturer.

The Farm and Home Week agenda includes observance of the 75th anniversary of the creation of the Wisconsin agricultural experiment station.

The campus stock pavilion was filled with exhibits displaying results of studies and research by various departments in agricultural work.

Thunderstorms are Expected tonight in eastern Texas and the lower Mississippi valley while rain or drizzle will fall in the Ohio valley, southern portions of the middle Atlantic coast and in Washington and Oregon. Snow is forecast for the central Rockies, the central plains, the middle Mississippi valley and most of the Great Lakes area. Colder weather is in store for the plains, the Rockies and the upper Mississippi valley.

Mild Spell Expected to End Soon

Mild temperatures returned to the Fox Cities overnight bringing mist and light drizzle throughout the region.

Forecasters say it will turn colder tonight, however, with the mist turning to snow in the northwest where accumulations of two to five inches are expected.

The outlook for Saturday, according to the weathermen, is mostly fair and very cold.

The Fox Cities weather picture is somewhat uncertain this morning. Conditions in the upper reaches over the area are changing rapidly as pressure systems slide through. A ridge of high developing to the north is expected to push into Wisconsin by late Friday bringing fresh blasts of cold air.

Meanwhile, however, Fox Cities residents were thawing out in the midst of almost spring-like readings. The maximum and minimum readings for the 24-hour period were only one degree apart, 30 and 29. It was 33 at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company weather station at 11 o'clock today.

The return of moderate temperatures brought the first robin report to the Post-Crescent today. Lt. Comdr. Robert Bodah and Chief Petty Officer William McClintock reported seeing three of the red-breasted birds near the navy reserve section at the Lawrence college gymnasium today.

Cardinal May Appear At Civil Rights Quiz

New York — (U) — Francis Cardinal Spellman has been invited to testify at a federal civil rights commission hearing here on discrimination in housing. The commission will hold a hearing next Monday and Tuesday as part of its efforts to get a general picture of housing discrimination around the country. Cardinal Spellman's scheduled role as a witness is believed to be his first personal appearance at a governmental hearing since he became Roman Catholic archbishop of New York in 1959. Plans for the hearing were announced by a commission spokesman in Washington last night. A score of witnesses from interested groups will be heard. Among them is Jackie Robinson, the Negro former Brooklyn Dodgers baseball star who is now a business executive. Mayor Robert F. Wagner also will be a witness. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is expected to attend the hearing or send a message to it.

take months . . . and months to pay on Lieber's Revolving Credit Plan

HERE'S HOW YOU DO IT:

Open a LRCP charge account today at Lieber's. It gives you the convenience of a regular charge account, yet lets you extend your payments over many months. You adjust your credit yourself to suit your needs and budget. For instance: If you feel your budget can stand $15.00 per month, you can get up to $300 in materials at any Lieber Yard. Another advantage of LRCP is that as your account is reduced you can keep right on getting materials you may need without changing your monthly payment as long as it does not exceed the maximum amount you specify. Read the chart to the left and decide now how much you want to pay each month under LRCP.
